Nixon Veto Of HEW Bill Is Upheld

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon and his congressional supporters have killed a $30-billion spending bill for health, education and welfare. The action provoked harsh attacks from administration critics.

Nixon vetoed the bill Wednesday and pressed Congress to take out the $1.8 billion added to his original request. He called the measure "reckless federal spending."

The House hours later failed to muster the two-thirds majority necessary to upset the veto. The vote was 203 to 171 in favor of overriding, 47 short of the number needed. No Senate vote on overriding will be taken.

Although Democrats led the attack on Nixon, the party split ranks in the House and 42 Democrats voted with 129 Republicans against overturning the veto.

Democratic presidential candidate George McGovern denounced the veto and declared it a campaign issue.

"Mr. Nixon has a confused set of values when he said it is reckless to spend $1.8 billion more to meet the health, education and human needs of this country, but contends it is desirable to spend over $4 billion more on the Pentagon next year," McGovern said in a statement issued in Springfield, Ill., where he was campaigning.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., asserted, "The President's veto once again has demonstrated his insensitivity to the nation's priorities in health, education and programs affecting the elderly."

But in the House, some ranking Democrats disagreed with their leaders' denunciation of the veto.

"The bill is higher than can be justified under the conditions prevailing in this country," said Texas Democrat George H. Mahon, chairman of the Appropriations Committee.

In his veto message, Nixon said the government cannot afford to spend the $30.5 billion appropriated for the Labor and Health, Education and Welfare departments.

The spending "just cannot be done without more taxes or more inflation, both of which I am determined to avoid," he said.

The bill carried funds for the fiscal year which began last July 1, and its demise leaves the two departments operating at last year's level of spending.

The vetoed measure contained about $800 million more than the President asked for education, including special allotments for poverty-area schools.

The health allotments exceeded his budget by about $900 million. Included were extra funds for research at the National Institutes of Health, for mental-health care, and for hospital construction grants.

Nixon also vetoed the HEW-Labor spending bill in 1969 and was upheld by the House.

Pollution Bill Aids Victims

Would Compensate For Job Loss

WASHINGTON (AP) — Persons who lose jobs and businesses that suffer when the government orders pollution stopped would be eligible for new benefits under a House-passed economic aid bill.

The $4.4-billion public-works and economic-development authorization bill was approved by the House, 285 to 92, Wednesday night and sent to the Senate after a battle over the $300-million "environmental effects" section.

The key test came on the effort to delete a section authorizing $100 million to compensate those put out of work by federal environmental-protection directives.

The House voted 201 to 162 to retain the provisions granting payment for up to 78 weeks of at least 60 per cent of the individual's weekly wage up to a ceiling of $129 per week.

Temporary aid for mortgage or rental payments would be provided for up to one year, and relocation expenses would be paid to those who found jobs elsewhere.

Opponents said this would set a dangerous precedent, and would discriminate against others who lose their jobs for non-environmental reasons. But supporters insisted the legislation would provide fair payment to innocent victims of government efforts to clean the air and water.

The bill designates $200 million for 30-year loans at 3-per-cent interest to enterprises that otherwise would be forced to close or cut back employment because of environmental orders.

The two-year authorization bill also covers several existing projects to help economically ailing regions and areas with high unemployment. Over-all, the bill authorizes $3.18 billion for new programs and $1.2 billion for existing projects.

Flatly Denies, Then Confirms Salinger Activities

McGovern Admits Paris Move

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — In the space of three hours, Democratic presidential nominee George McGovern first denied, then confirmed, that Pierre Salinger had acted as his agent in secret Paris talks with North Vietnamese peace negotiators about U. S. prisoners of war.

Then he died any flim-flammy.

Here is what happened Wednesday:

Early in the day a news agency reported from Paris that anonymous friends of McGovern said Salinger, who was President John F. Kennedy's press spokesman, had given Hanoi negotiators a message from McGovern saying they should conclude a peace with President Nixon without waiting for the November election.

The story proved to be at least partially true, but in early afternoon McGovern denied it flatly. He even went further, leaving the clear impression that anything Salinger might have done was strictly at his own initiative.

A newsman's tape recorder caught this exchange as McGovern stepped down from a speaker's platform at the Illinois State Fair:

"Pierre Salinger had no instructions whatsoever from me," McGovern said. "He told me he's going to Paris and he said while he was there he might try to make some determination of what was going on in the negotiations. But there wasn't the slightest instruction on my part to him."

"Did you discuss this with him at any length?" he was asked.

"No. I haven't seen him for several weeks."

Barely two hours later, McGovern's press secretary, Richard Dougherty, casually distributed a three paragraph printed statement from McGovern to newsmen in a temporary press room at McGovern's hotel. It said:

"I have just conferred by phone with Pierre Salinger in reference to his recent visit to Paris."

Mr. Salinger had planned to return to Paris following the Democratic National Convention and at my request, he met with members of the North Vietnamese delegation in Paris.

"The only purpose of the discussion was to determine if any change had occurred which would permit the return of the prisoners prior to the end of hostilities.

"Mr. Salinger found no change in the publicly stated positions of Hanoi. Mr. Salinger also made clear that I have repeatedly stated my conviction that the end of the war should not be delayed by a single day because of the American election campaign."

What McGovern was saying is that he had, in fact, instructed Salinger and that Salinger (Continued on Page 2)

Lindsay Sets War On Mob In New York

NEW YORK (AP) — Amid the lingering echo of misaimed gangland guns that killed two innocent bystanders by mistake, New York's 30,000-member police force was under mandate from Mayor John V. Lindsay today to "run the mobsters out of town."

"Get out and stay out!" was the message the mayor ordered police brass to relay to the city's five shadowy Cosa Nostra families, ranging in size up to possibly 1,000 members.

The "hit" parade that began 14 months ago with the shooting of crime chieftain Joseph Colombo had already claimed 15 lives within the underworld, before it spilled into the city's mainstream last Friday with misdirected bullets fired in a little East Side restaurant.

"The recent murder of innocent citizens, allegedly the result of mistaken identity by gangland executioners, is an outrage which demands that the romanticization of the mob must be stopped and the gangsters run out of town," Lindsay declared in a statement Wednesday.

Manhattan Dist. Atty. Frank S. Hogan already has announced a wholesale subpoenaing of members of New York's five crime families, for a grand jury convening next week to look into the mistake slaying of two businessmen at the Neapolitan Noodle restaurant.

Lindsay gave no details on how he expected the police to chase the mob out of the city.

The present gang warfare has been attributed to various factors — a slowdown over territory or rackets, pressure for or against the mob's re-entry into the lucrative field of narcotics, an influx of hot-blooded young buttonmen who are tired of waiting for the elderly dons of the Mafia to die or step aside.

Richley said the entire cost of the dinner will be paid for by sale of tickets to guests, most of whom will be highway department personnel. Gov. John Gilligan will be the principal speaker, he said.

Kissinger Mum On Vietnam Trip

SAIGON (AP) — Henry A. Kissinger and President Nguyen Van Thieu conferred for more than two hours today on secret peace talks that the presidential adviser held with the North Vietnamese, in Paris.

They scheduled a second meeting for Friday. It had been expected that Kissinger and Thieu would confer only once. The scheduling of a second meeting fanned speculation that the subject was highly significant and possibly involved a major proposal put forth by the Americans.

U.S. Sources confirmed that the talks between Kissinger and North Vietnam's chief negotiator, Le Duc Tho, figured in the meeting. They gave no hint as to the tenor of the discussion or whether there had been disagreement.

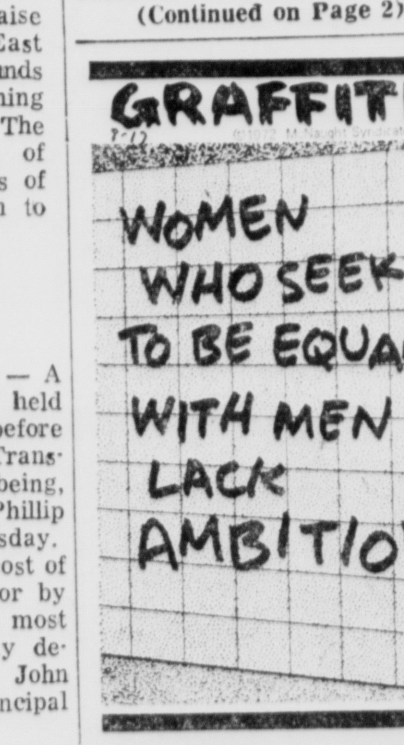

"I really won't talk — there is no sense in asking me questions," President Nixon's chief adviser on foreign policy told newsmen when they asked if he was delivering any new peace proposals to Thieu.

Kissinger, who arrived Wednesday night from Paris and Switzerland, met with Thieu after a session Wednesday evening with U. S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker and a meeting of nearly three hours today with Bunker, Gen. Frederick C. Weyand, the commander of U.S. forces in Vietnam, and Weyand's Air Force commander, Gen. John W. Vogt.

Kissinger said his conference with the other Americans dealt with "the general political and military situation." This echoed the White House's earlier announcement that he was going to Saigon for a "general review of all aspects of the Vietnam problem including the negotiations in Paris."

Kissinger came to Saigon after a secret meeting in Paris Monday with Le Du Tho of the North Vietnamese Politburo, and while the American was traveling to South Vietnam, Thieu was en route back to Hanoi.

This combination of events, coupled with the boost that a peace agreement would give President Nixon's candidacy for reelection, touched off speculation around the world that Kissinger and Thieu had made a deal and that Kissinger had come to Saigon to tell Thieu he would have to resign (Continued on Page 2)

Heaviest Viet Air Strikes In Months Pound North

SAIGON (AP) — American jets hit North Vietnam with nearly 400 strikes Wednesday in the heaviest raids since the resumption of full-scale bombing 4½ months ago, the U.S. Command announced today.

The announcement was made just before U.S. presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger met with President Nguyen Van Thieu, who has been urging that there be no letup in the bombing of the north.

The U.S. Command refused to say whether the intensification of the air attack was a show of determination by President Nixon to back Thieu's government to the hilt. But other U.S. military sources suggested that the increase in the number of raids might be attributable to improved weather over North Vietnam.

Nearly 300 strikes were made against North Vietnam Tuesday after a week of overcast skies that had cut raids to an average of less than 200 a day.

A communique from the U.S. Command said "more than 370 tactical air strikes" were flown Wednesday, ranging from the coast inland to the Hanoi area.

The biggest strike of the day, the Air Force said, was against the Xun Mai military training complex 17 miles southwest of Hanoi.

The heaviest raids announced previously by the U.S. Command totaled 340 strikes, on June 13 and 15 and on July 6 and 13.

Hanoi claimed four more U.S. fighter-bombers were shot down during the raids Wednesday, raising to nine the number of American planes North Vietnam says it knocked out of the sky in the past three days. There was no mention of the fate of the crewmen.

The U.S. Command said it had no plane losses over the North to report. But the Command has a policy of withholding announcement of air losses while search and rescue operations are going on.

The Command did announce that an American helicopter was shot down on the central coast of South Vietnam and a crewman was injured.

VC Delegate Says U.S. Missed Peace Chance

PARIS (AP) — The Viet Cong asserted today that President Nixon missed "one of the most favorable opportunities to end the war" in January 1969, when he arrived in the White House.

Mrs. Nguyen Thi Binh, chief Viet Cong delegate, told the 11th session of the talks that the U.S. government then was not seeking "a correct negotiated solution, based on the fundamental rights of the Vietnamese people and of the right of self-determination for the people of South Vietnam."

"On the contrary, it sought a solution which would permit it to perpetuate the yoke of neo-colonialism on South Vietnam," she charged.

Mrs. Binh recalled that January 1969 marked the start of the conference but did not give further details as to why it was a most favorable occasion to end the war.

Nixon To Be Only Candidate For Nomination

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — President Nixon is certain to be the only candidate placed in nomination at next week's Republican National Convention but one floor fight seems assured over a conservative-backed delegate reapportionment plan. Another could come on a proposal to legalize abortion.

The possibility that California Rep. Paul N. McCloskey would be nominated in opposition to Nixon disappeared Wednesday when the GOP National Committee rejected his plea that he name the one New Mexico delegate guaranteed him and the Rules Committee voted to require that a candidate have majorities from three delegations to be placed formally in nomination.

The National Committee considers that rule today along with the plan approved Wednesday by the Rules Committee that opponents say favors the delegate strength of smaller and Southern states at the 1976 GOP convention.

Backers of proposals to increase the delegate strength of larger states say the 1976 presidential prospects of Vice President Spiro T. Agnew are linked to the battle of smaller states, not to give bigger states more convention power.

In the fight over delegate reapportionment here, a rules subcommittee had voted Tuesday to increase the strength of large states. That decision was overturned Wednesday in the full Rules Committee, which voted 31 to 16 for the plan proposed by Sen. John G. Tower of Texas.

4 Americans Are Vietnam War Victims

SAIGON (AP) — Four Americans were reported killed in action in the Vietnam war last week, six more were missing in action and seven died of non-hostile causes, the U.S. Command announced today. Another 28 Americans were wounded.

South Vietnamese spokesmen said their losses last week were the most in four weeks, with 763 men killed in action, 2,489 wounded and 151 missing. The toll contrasted sharply with the previous week when reported government casualties were 63 killed, 2,115 wounded and 114 missing — the lowest since the first week of the North Vietnamese offensive.

The Saigon command claimed 3,099 enemy troops were killed last week, the most in five weeks.

The allied commands now have announced these total casualties for the war:

American — 45,847 killed in action, 1,651 missing, 303,322 wounded, 10,253 dead from non-hostile causes.

South Vietnamese — 152,806 killed in action, 396,305 wounded.

North Vietnamese and Viet Cong — 873,480 killed.

Dollar Stronger On European Exchanges

By LAURANCE F. STUNTZ Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — International economists say the tremendous strength of the dollar in foreign exchange markets over the past two days indicates that funds from overseas are pouring into the United States.

"This could be the most important week of the year for the dollar," said William Wolman, vice president and economist for Argus Research. "I think the dollars are coming back and the higher prices for the dollar are proof everybody is buying."

However, the greater demand for the dollar overseas has not all good news for the United States. It could lead to higher interest rates on short-term loans.

European reports on dollar sales volume Wednesday ranged from "massive" in Germany to "very strong" in London.

The gain in the dollar price meant that other currencies went down. The most notable loss was in the German mark. It closed at 31.35 cents, down from 31.395 in the previous day. The pound, up a little, was the only major currency to gain more than the dollar. The French franc sank to its lowest figure in eight months.

Why is the dollar coming back this way?

Money men say that three factors are interacting to drive up the European quotations for dollars.

—Henry Kissinger's latest trip to Southeast Asia, which some interpret as indicating that peace is nearer.

—The improved figures on the U.S. balance of payments, announced earlier in the week.

—Inflation is growing more rapidly in Europe than in the United States.

Inflation overseas means that the dollar is now a better investment than some domestic currencies, so capital is being put into dollars as a hedge.

VC Delegate Says U.S. Missed Peace Chance

PARIS (AP) — The Viet Cong asserted today that President Nixon missed "one of the most favorable opportunities to end the war" in January 1969, when he arrived in the White House.

Mrs. Nguyen Thi Binh, chief Viet Cong delegate, told the 11th session of the talks that the U.S. government then was not seeking "a correct negotiated solution, based on the fundamental rights of the Vietnamese people and of the right of self-determination for the people of South Vietnam."

"On the contrary, it sought a solution which would permit it to perpetuate the yoke of neo-colonialism on South Vietnam," she charged.

Mrs. Binh recalled that January 1969 marked the start of the conference but did not give further details as to why it was a most favorable occasion to end the war.

Nixon To Be Only Candidate For Nomination

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — President Nixon is certain to be the only candidate placed in nomination at next week's Republican National Convention but one floor fight seems assured over a conservative-backed delegate reapportionment plan. Another could come on a proposal to legalize abortion.

The possibility that California Rep. Paul N. McCloskey would be nominated in opposition to Nixon disappeared Wednesday when the GOP National Committee rejected his plea that he name the one New Mexico delegate guaranteed him and the Rules Committee voted to require that a candidate have majorities from three delegations to be placed formally in nomination.

The National Committee considers that rule today along with the plan approved Wednesday by the Rules Committee that opponents say favors the delegate strength of smaller and Southern states at the 1976 GOP convention.

Backers of proposals to increase the delegate strength of larger states say the 1976 presidential prospects of Vice President Spiro T. Agnew are linked to the battle of smaller states, not to give bigger states more convention power.

In the fight over delegate reapportionment here, a rules subcommittee had voted Tuesday to increase the strength of large states. That decision was overturned Wednesday in the full Rules Committee, which voted 31 to 16 for the plan proposed by Sen. John G. Tower of Texas.

4 Americans Are Vietnam War Victims

SAIGON (AP) — Four Americans were reported killed in action in the Vietnam war last week, six more were missing in action and seven died of non-hostile causes, the U.S. Command announced today. Another 28 Americans were wounded.

South Vietnamese spokesmen said their losses last week were the most in four weeks, with 763 men killed in action, 2,489 wounded and 151 missing. The toll contrasted sharply with the previous week when reported government casualties were 63 killed, 2,115 wounded and 114 missing — the lowest since the first week of the North Vietnamese offensive.

The Saigon command claimed 3,099 enemy troops were killed last week, the most in five weeks.

The allied commands now have announced these total casualties for the war:

American — 45,847 killed in action, 1,651 missing, 303,322 wounded, 10,253 dead from non-hostile causes.

South Vietnamese — 152,806 killed in action, 396,305 wounded.

Nixon To Address American Legion

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House says President Nixon plans to address the annual convention of the American Legion at Chicago Aug. 24. The President will stop off in Chicago while en route from Florida to the Western White House at San Clemente, Calif., aides said Tuesday.

Dollar Stronger On European Exchanges

By LAURANCE F. STUNTZ
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — International economists say the tremendous strength of the dollar in foreign exchange markets over the past two days indicates that funds from overseas are pouring into the United States.

"This could be the most important week of the year for the dollar," said William Wolman, vice president and economist for Argus Research. "I think the dollars are coming back and the higher prices for the dollar are proof everybody is buying."

However, the greater demand for the dollar overseas is not all good news for the United States. It could lead to higher interest rates on short-term loans.

European reports on dollar sales volume Wednesday ranged from "massive" in Germany to "very strong" in London.

The gain in the dollar price meant that other currencies went down. The most notable loss was in the German mark. It closed at 31.35 cents, down from 31.395 in the previous day. The pound, up a little, was the only major currency to gain more than the dollar. The French franc sank to its lowest figure in eight months.

Why is the dollar coming back this way? Money men say that three factors are interacting to drive up the European quotations for dollars.

Most Ohioans Lawbreakers, According To Old Statutes

By DAVID TOMLIN
Associated Press Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Chances are you broke the law today. You probably do it all the time. Remember, there are a lot of laws.

The fact is that a host of little-known laws on the Ohio statute books are making criminals out of thousands of people who probably never suspect they're doing anything wrong.

Here are a few of the ways you could be asking for trouble:

—If you're a man and use obscene language in front of your wife, or any other woman or any child 12 years old or younger, you are subject to a $100 fine or 30 days in jail or both.

—Maybe you like politics and you chucked 50 cents into an office pool on the outcome of the presidential election. Watch your step. The law says you can get six months in jail or a $500 fine or both.

—Bet you thought your private life was private. The state says it isn't. You can't cohabit with anyone but your lawful spouse or take off your clothes in front of two or more members of the opposite sex. If you do, it's $200 or three months behind bars or both.

Many of these old laws will disappear when the legislature enacts a new criminal code it is now considering. It will be the first such alteration of Ohio's laws since 1815.

Some states comb their statute books for old laws that are no longer relevant or have been declared unconstitutional and pull them out. But Ohio never has.

Mostly the results are nothing more than quaint, like the law that forbids pilfering of bees or beehives or the one that forbids male teachers to have sexual relations with their students but says nothing about female teachers.

But there are many ways that these old statutes, many of them enacted because of a specific forgotten event, can get you into trouble.

Does your child read comics that depict criminal acts or violence? Chances are he does. Selling or giving such "funnies" to a minor is an offense punishable by a $1,000 fine or six months in jail or both.

Does your fraternity or sorority have new members? It's against the law. The penalty is $200 or six months in jail or both.

Did you send your child to bed without supper last night? If he's precocious he'll hire a lawyer and you might end up in jail for six months or have to pay a $200 fine for depriving him of necessary food.

Watch out for city ordinances too. Most of them carry penalties of $300 or 90 days or both.

Don't spit on the sidewalk or drink in your car or beg with a tin cup full of pencils or shoe-laces or block the sidewalk while talking with your friends, or operate a pinball machine or let anyone play poker for money in your house.

Don't hold your breath waiting to get arrested for any of these things. But don't count on not getting arrested either.

Mayor Buys Man Drink, Gives Help

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — A 47-year-old man named Vernon walked up to the mayor and said he needed help.

"What kind of help?" the mayor asked Wednesday.

"I need money for a drink," Vernon said.

"That's the most refreshing approach I've ever seen," the mayor said. "Come with me."

They crossed the street and stepped into a local hotel's bar.

"By the way, I'm Larry Cohen, mayor of this city," the mayor said.

"You don't say," Vernon replied, adding that he would like a whiskey sour.

"How long have you been on this bender?" Cohen inquired, as he paid for the drink.

"A couple months," Vernon said.

"Come with me," Cohen said. They walked back across the street and into City Hall, took the elevator to the third floor and approached a door with a sign that said "Mayor."

"You ain't gonna have me arrested, are you?" Vernon asked.

"Hell, no," Cohen said.

They went into the office. In two minutes, Cohen had located an alcoholism counselor for Vernon.

Shriver Drive Puts Emphasis On Home Affairs

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Emerging from the tumult of a traffic-stopping street rally, Sargent Shriver has focused his vice presidential campaign on domestic issues, calling President Nixon an "economic and moral disaster for labor."

Shriver seemed buoyed by the voters who greeted him here Wednesday, but his aides said his mission to California was equally directed to raising campaign funds from badly splintered Democratic contributors.

He is scheduled to fly to Denver and possibly Houston today.

Taft Broadcasting, which owns the new Kings Island amusement park north of Cincinnati, said Hanna Barbera Corp., a subsidiary, will help design the new park set for completion in 1975.

South Central Power Holds 36th Annual Meet Today

Darwin Kindler, general manager of the South Central Power Company, speaking at the 36th Annual meeting of the utility at the Fairfield County Fairgrounds, told approximately 6,000 assembled members consumers of another year of growth and progress today.

"More than 1800 new consumers were added to the system," said Kindler. "Two new substations were constructed, more than 160 miles of line, including 50 miles of heavy feeder line to increase capacity in certain fast-growth areas were added, and the total plant investment reached $28,565,903 — the highest in the company's history."

Other statistics show that the depreciated assets of the consumer-owned utility have increased to $25,729,750; the net worth of the company has risen to $12,222,607, and the total number of consumers billed in the year 1971 reached 419,694 — another all-time high.

The South Central Power system now shows that more than 7500 security lights are being billed on a monthly basis, and the total number of kilowatt hours sold soared to 438,032,838 in 1971.

The figures also showed that the average South Central consumer uses an average of 1,053 kilowatt hours each month, at an average monthly cost of $20.05. The total revenue billed for the year 1971 stood at $8,384,055 — an increase from a total of $7,017,897 in 1970.

"All signs," said Kindler, "point to a continued rate of growth on a par with, or greater than, that experienced in 1971."

System additions to the South Central Power Company service area will require an investment of approximately $6 million in 1972 and 1973.

It is estimated that 4600 new consumers would be added to the system in the next two years, requiring four new 7500 KVA substations, 330 miles of distribution and feeder lines, 17.4 miles of transmission line and many other pieces of small equipment.

About one-third of the amount needed to pay for this expansion will be generated by the power company itself through its margins, and the rest will be debt capital. It will be borrowed from the Rural Electrification Administration and the private money market.

Plans to assure an adequate future power supply for South Central Country are moving along to completion.

"Power supply," said Kindler, "accounts for approximately one-half the cost of delivering electricity to our member-consumers."

The output of the original Buckeye Power unit on the Ohio River (The Cardinal Plant) is now almost completely utilized by the requirements of its owners. The second unit has passed the drawing board stage and is moving into the construction area. "In the past ten years, however," Kindler said, "construction costs have more than doubled, interest rates have soared and other costs have kept pace with the inflationary spiral. These increases are bound to be reflected in the cost of bulk power purchased by South Central and other rural electric cooperatives."

Another spiraling cost plaguing the electric power business is that of coal. The price of coal has risen more than 50 per cent over the past four years and will go even higher according to professional predictions. Kindler said the locally-owned utility was helping to support a research program to speed development of a liquid metal breeder reactor — a method of power generation that will practically eliminate the pollution that occurs with contemporary generators. "To prepare for the future when the cost of producing energy through fossil fuels may be prohibitive, we have had to look for other means of energy production," the general manager said.

Kindler later explained that all electric power producers in the country have banded together to fight the twin problems of power scarcity and pollution. A total of 500 million dollars has been pledged by the Atomic Energy Commission and power companies. Half that amount will be furnished by the AEC, another $200 million by the investor-owned power companies; $40 million by municipally-owned power companies, and $10 million by rural electric cooperatives.

The money is to be paid to the Breeder Reaction Corporation — an organization set up to handle the collection of the money for the research — over a ten year period. Specifically, Kindler said, "the share that South Central Power pays into this research fund over the next ten years will amount to $101,172."

"Perhaps," he said, "this will give our consumers some small idea of how their company is ranked on a national basis. Each rural electric cooperative is asked to contribute on a formula applied as to size and number of meters on a given system. There are approximately 1000 rural electric cooperatives in the nation, and South Central's contribution to the research fund amounts to approximately 1-100 of the whole."

In Washington, White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler denied that was Kissinger's mission, saying it would be "incorrect speculation to say that Dr. Kissinger's trip is for that purpose." But his denial did nothing to quiet the speculation.

There was also speculation that Kissinger was sent to tell Thieu that his secret talks with Tho were deadlocked, just like the semipublic peace talks in Paris, and to reassure him that the Nixon administration would continue its massive bombing and other support of Thieu's government.

Dollar . . .

government has been financing some of its expenses by borrowing, in effect, from foreign central banks which have a dollar surplus. They have bought Treasury bills, short-term IOUs, with their dollars.

Now, with their dollars being bought by overseas investors and sent to the United States, these banks will not be buying the Treasury bills. That means the U.S. government will have to sell bills to U.S. citizens and institutions. To do this, it will have to raise interest rates to compete with private borrowers. This rise in rates will cause a corresponding rise in rates charged to these private borrowers.

In other words, the government will compete for the U.S. investment dollar, and competition will result in the higher interest levels.

McGovern . . .

had, in fact, raised the issue of a pre-election peace.

Why the discrepancy? Newsweek questioned McGovern an hour later as he emerged from an elevator to enter a reception for Illinois Democrats.

"There's no discrepancy at all," McGovern insisted.

"I was asked if I had instructed Pierre Salinger to inform the North Vietnamese delegation that I wanted them to go ahead and negotiate a peaceful settlement now. I said I had never even discussed that matter with Mr. Salinger, and I didn't even know that he had brought up the issue. I didn't even know that he was in the United States until he called me some two hours after I talked with you."

Then Dougherty cut off questioning, insisting McGovern was behind schedule.

Shriver Drive Puts Emphasis On Home Affairs

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Emerging from the tumult of a traffic-stopping street rally, Sargent Shriver has focused his vice presidential campaign on domestic issues, calling President Nixon an "economic and moral disaster for labor."

Shriver seemed buoyed by the voters who greeted him here Wednesday, but his aides said his mission to California was equally directed to raising campaign funds from badly splintered Democratic contributors.

He is scheduled to fly to Denver and possibly Houston today.

South Central Power Holds 36th Annual Meet Today

Darwin Kindler, general manager of the South Central Power Company, speaking at the 36th Annual meeting of the utility at the Fairfield County Fairgrounds, told approximately 6,000 assembled member-consumers of another year of growth and progress today.

"More than 1800 new consumers were added to the system," said Kindler. "Two new substations were constructed, more than 160 miles of line, including 50 miles of heavy feeder line to increase capacity in certain fast-growth areas were added, and the total plant investment reached $28,565,903 — the highest in the company's history."

Other statistics show that the depreciated assets of the consumer-owned utility have increased to $25,729,750; the net worth of the company has risen to $12,222,607, and the total number of consumers billed in the year 1971 reached 419,694 — another all-time high.

The South Central Power system now shows that more than 7500 security lights are being billed on a monthly basis, and the total number of kilowatt hours sold soared to 438,032,838 in 1971.

The figures also showed that the average South Central consumer uses an average of 1,053 kilowatt hours each month, at an average monthly cost of $20.05. The total revenue billed for the year 1971 stood at $8,384,055 — an increase from a total of $7,017,897 in 1970.

"All signs," said Kindler, "point to a continued rate of growth on a par with, or greater than, that experienced in 1971."

System additions to the South Central Power Company service area will require an investment of approximately $6 million in 1972 and 1973.

It is estimated that 4600 new consumers would be added to the system in the next two years, requiring four new 7500 KVA substations, 330 miles of distribution and feeder lines, 17.4 miles of transmission line and many other pieces of small equipment.

About one-third of the amount needed to pay for this expansion will be generated by the power company itself through its margins, and the rest will be debt capital. It will be borrowed from the Rural Electrification Administration and the private money market.

Plans to assure an adequate future power supply for South Central Country are moving along to completion.

"Power supply," said Kindler, "accounts for approximately one-half the cost of delivering electricity to our member-consumers."

The output of the original Buckeye Power unit on the Ohio River (The Cardinal Plant) is now almost completely utilized by the requirements of its owners. The second unit has passed the drawing board stage and is moving into the construction area. "In the past ten years, however," Kindler said, "construction costs have more than doubled, interest rates have soared and other costs have kept pace with the inflationary spiral. These increases are bound to be reflected in the cost of bulk power purchased by South Central and other rural electric cooperatives."

Another spiraling cost plaguing the electric power business is that of coal. The price of coal has risen more than 50 per cent over the past four years and will go even higher according to professional predictions. Kindler said the locally-owned utility was helping to support a research program to speed development of a liquid metal breeder reactor — a method of power generation that will practically eliminate the pollution that occurs with contemporary generators. "To prepare for the future when the cost of producing energy through fossil fuels may be prohibitive, we have had to look for other means of energy production," the general manager said.

Kindler later explained that all electric power producers in the country have banded together to fight the twin problems of power scarcity and pollution. A total of 500 million dollars has been pledged by the Atomic Energy Commission and power companies. Half that amount will be furnished by the AEC, another $200 million by the investor-owned power companies; $40 million by municipally-owned power companies, and $10 million by rural electric cooperatives.

The money is to be paid to the Breeder Reaction Corporation — an organization set up to handle the collection of the money for the research — over a ten year period. Specifically, Kindler said, "the share that South Central Power pays into this research fund over the next ten years will amount to $101,172."

"Perhaps," he said, "this will give our consumers some small idea of how their company is ranked on a national basis. Each rural electric cooperative is asked to contribute on a formula applied as to size and number of meters on a given system. There are approximately 1000 rural electric cooperatives in the nation, and South Central's contribution to the research fund amounts to approximately 1-100 of the whole."

In Washington, White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler denied that was Kissinger's mission, saying it would be "in-correct speculation to say that Dr. Kissinger's trip is for that purpose." But his denial did nothing to quiet the speculation.

There was also speculation that Kissinger was sent to tell Thieu that his secret talks with Tho were deadlocked, just like the semipublic peace talks in Paris, and to reassure him that the Nixon administration would continue its massive bombing and other support of Thieu's government.

Dollar . . .

government has been financing some of its expenses by borrowing, in effect, from foreign central banks which have a dollar surplus. They have bought Treasury bills, short-term IOUs, with their dollars.

Now, with their dollars being bought by overseas investors and sent to the United States, these banks will not be buying the Treasury bills. That means the U.S. government will have to sell bills to U.S. citizens and institutions. To do this, it will have to raise interest rates to compete with private borrowers. This rise in rates will cause a corresponding rise in rates charged to these private borrowers.

In other words, the government will compete for the U.S. investment dollar, and competition will result in the higher interest levels.

Firefighting At Mine Said Too Slow

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (AP) — The general foreman of the Blacksville No. 1 mine, where nine miners perished July 22, told a board of inquiry here Tuesday that efforts were slow in fighting the underground fire which killed the nine men.

Herman Liddle was among 10 witnesses who testified at the opening session of the State Department of Mine's probe into the mining mishap.

He told the board he arrived at the mine about 9 p.m. July 22—about a half hour after the fire had broken out underground—only to find nobody was fighting the fire.

He said he donned gear and went underground to the fire area where he saw "fire, lots of fire, but I couldn't get by the fire at all" to reach some nine men presumably trapped.

Other testimony Tuesday centered on the history of the mine and operations within it during the 24 hours prior to the fire.

Movement of a large continuous miner from one section of the mine to the other apparently caused the fire when the equipment came into contact with a "hot" wire throwing sparks and touching off the blaze.

Under questioning from Leslie Ryan, state inspector for northern West Virginia, Liddle said the disaster would not have occurred if state mining regulations had been followed.

The Blacksville mine, owned by Consolidation Coal Company, straddles the West Virginia-Pennsylvania border. It had been in operation 3 1/2 years.

Following numerous explosions after the fire, the mine was sealed with the bodies of the nine men inside.

Testimony Tuesday also centered on the similar movement of a coal loading machine in the mine some 24 hours prior to the fire.

Raymond McCoy, a section foreman who was in charge of moving mine machinery, told the Board there "couldn't have been any more precautions taken" when that piece of equipment was transferred.

He said he was a veteran of more than 1,000 equipment moves in mines, but that movement of the coal loader was the first he had supervised during his three years' employment at the Blacksville mine.

Prior to that he had spent 22 years in charge of equipment moves at a mine in nearby Marion County.

The hearing in the Mongalia County Courthouse here is expected to continue through Friday.

U.S. Bureau of Mine officials will hold their own hearing into the incident at a later date.

The Board of Inquiry is made up of representative of Consolidation Coal, the United Mine Workers union and the state department of mines.

Let's Tour Ohio

Ohio State Fair Tops Columbus Area Attractions

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is one of a series of short tours of Ohio travel attraction prepared by Columbus Auto Club Travel Department for The Herald.

Columbus receives many visitors year-round because it is the state capital, but between Aug. 24 and Sept. 4 the greatest attraction is the Ohio State Fair.

Columbus City Hall and the Gallery of Fine Arts downtown, and the Park of Roses and Railway Museum to the north are other attractions of the capital city.

AAA suggests this routing to the tour area: from Circleville go north on US 23 to I-270; west on I-270 to I-71; north on I-71 to the tour area.

Maddox Packages TV Variety Show

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Lt. Gov. Lester Maddox has packaged a television variety show which he hopes to syndicate. Maddox, who said he has always felt that "one of my best talents was in the field of entertainment," described the new venture Monday as a vehicle for carrying "the story of private enterprise, patriotism and faith in God to the people of this country."

Man Is Sentenced In Slaying Case

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — A three-judge panel sitting in Cuyahoga County Common Pleas Court has sentenced William Herschel Collins, 24, of Cleveland to 55 years in prison. The panel found him guilty Tuesday of first-degree murder, kidnapping leading to death and armed robbery of retired steel worker, Paul Toth, 64.

Firefighting At Mine Said Too Slow

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (AP) — The general foreman of the Blacksville No. 1 mine, where nine miners perished July 22, told a board of inquiry here Tuesday that efforts were slow in fighting the underground fire which killed the nine men.

Herman Liddle was among 10 witnesses who testified at the opening session of the State Department of Mine's probe into the mining mishap.

He told the board he arrived at the mine about 9 p.m. July 22—about a half hour after the fire had broken out underground—only to find nobody was fighting the fire.

He said he donned gear and went underground to the fire area where he saw "fire, lots of fire, but I couldn't get by the fire at all" to reach some nine men presumably trapped.

Other testimony Tuesday centered on the history of the mine and operations within it during the 24 hours prior to the fire.

Movement of a large continuous miner from one section of the mine to the other apparently caused the fire when the equipment came into contact with a "hot" wire throwing sparks and touching off the blaze.

Under questioning from Leslie Ryan, state inspector for northern West Virginia, Liddle said the disaster would not have occurred if state mining regulations had been followed.

The Blacksville mine, owned by Consolidation Coal Company, straddles the West Virginia-Pennsylvania border. It had been in operation 3½ years.

Following numerous explosions after the fire, the mine was sealed with the bodies of the nine men inside.

Testimony Tuesday also centered on the similar movement of a coal loading machine in the mine some 24 hours prior to the fire.

Raymond McCoy, a section foreman who was in charge of moving mine machinery, told the Board there "couldn't have been any more precautions taken" when that piece of equipment was transferred.

He said he was a veteran of more than 1,000 equipment moves in mines, but that movement of the coal loader was the first he had supervised during his three years' employment at the Blacksville mine.

Prior to that he had spent 22 years in charge of equipment moves at a mine in nearby Marion County.

The hearing in the Monongalia County Courthouse here is expected to continue through Friday.

U.S. Bureau of Mine officials will hold their own hearing into the incident at a later date.

The Board of Inquiry is made up of representative of Consolidation Coal, the United Mine Workers union and the state department of mines.

Long Bicycle Trip Ends In Nova Scotia

HALIFAX, N.S. (AP) — Sixteen teen-age students and their teacher from Seattle, Wash., went to bed happy Monday night after a 4,435-mile bicycle trip from their home city.

Frances Call, the students' teacher at North Mercer Junior High, said the hardest thing about the trip "was the bicycle seat" and lack of showers.

Let's Tour Ohio

Ohio State Fair Tops Columbus Area Attractions

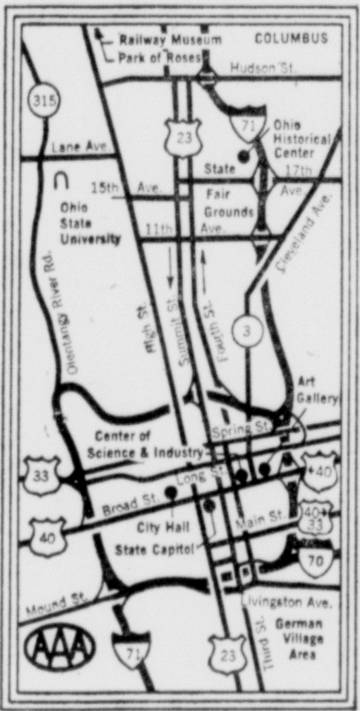

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is one of a series of short tours of Ohio travel attraction prepared by Columbus Auto Club Travel Department for The Herald.

Columbus receives many visitors year-round because it is the state capital, but between Aug. 24 and Sept. 4 the greatest attraction is the Ohio State Fair.

Germant Village is a restored area just south of downtown. Many restored homes and gardens of early German settlers, specialty shops and restaurants are within its 200 acres.

Columbus City Hall and the Gallery of Fine Arts downtown, and the Park of Roses and Railway Museum to the north are other attractions of the capital city.

AAA suggests this routing to the tour area: from Circleville go north on US 23 to I-270; west on I-270 to I-71; north on I-71 to the tour area.

One of the largest and best-attended fairs in the nation, the Ohio State Fair offers variety for the approximately two million visitors each year.

Cattle and horse shows, farm equipment and other rural displays and top national entertainment can be seen over the 360 acre fairgrounds. The huge midway, which includes a kiddieland, and harness racing are other popular attractions.

The new Ohio Historical Center, adjacent to the fairgrounds, is a futuristic structure supported only by four concrete pillars and jacks.

The plaza level contains a display of Ohio battle flags, while the museum section, below ground, has Ohio history, natural history and archaeological displays.

Downtown attractions include the Ohio State Capitol, considered one of the finest examples of Doric architecture in the nation. Built during the 19th century, it contains the senate and representative chambers portraits of Ohio governors, historical documents and a Teen-age Hall of Fame.

Displays at the Center of Science and Industry feature space, industry, health and history.

Smog Habit

When Londoners were told several years ago that their city was no longer the dirty place it had been for years, there were many disbelievers. But the visitor who had not been in the city for several years noticed the improvement right away.

What cleaned up London were stringent laws against air pollution, strictly enforced. Could this pattern be repeated elsewhere? It may already be going through a rerun — in Los Angeles.

Los Angeles, the smog capital of the United States, the city which just once would like to be the brunt of a comedian's joke on some subject other than smog, has statistics to prove it isn't what it used to be. In 1958, there were 226 days in which most residents of the city experienced eye irritations. By 1971, this measurement had improved to 125 days. Sixteen years ago, the concentration of ozone reached 10 parts per million in all but a handful of days in the year. In 1971, this level was reached in only 210 days.

There is other evidence of improvement also, although Los Angeles still has its decidedly bad days. Chances are, as in London, the occasional visitor will be the first to notice the improvement. Residents have lived with it so long they don't believe the sun when they see it.

No Substitute

Food fads are under fire again on several fronts. People would be healthier and wealthier, say many doctors, if they spent their money for nourishing food and stayed away from food supplements.

America's annual bill for health foods, vitamin pills and the like comes to an estimated $1 billion. That will buy a lot of meat and potatoes and green vegetables and milk, doctors point out, and at the same time provide all the vitamins and minerals needed.

The extravagant claims of food fadists, which exceed any basic medical evidence, appeal chiefly to the man who eats on the run and the woman who is allergic to hot stoves. But for most persons there is no substitute for a leisurely meal, cooked with tender loving care.

And if the day ever comes, as some predict, when dinner is served up in the form of a pill, that will be the time to picket the kitchen.

FRIDAY'S HOROSCOPE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You are all too apt to state some truth so badly that another with whom you want to keep on good terms takes offense. You then find you have made an opponent of one you never thought possible to have against you. But if you keep tactful and refrain from critical and unwise comments, you can hold such friendship with ease.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You want to go off to some new interest you know little about at the cost of present good set-up, so think twice and refrain. New contacts are fine, but don't shed current allies as a result. Keep poised.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Endeavoring to get out of some responsibility you have assumed could really cause you trouble today, so follow through instead and show you have real character. Use patience where mate is concerned. Forget that temper.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Troublesome matters with associates can be handled satisfactorily if you are willing to listen to their views more. Do nothing to start an argument. Forget that desire to be kingpin — remember it is a partnership.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Why don't you get right down to all that work you have on hand and be charming about it? This gets you back into the good graces of bigwigs. Taking health treatments simply is a must now.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You want to run off to fun places at the cost of important work, etc., so stop such mistaken thoughts and carry through wisely. Get into creative things during spare time. Derive much pleasure from them.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Don't let some unkind remark at home touch off a big argument, but take it in your stride, and quietly find out what brought it on. Keep busy at whatever is your have to do. A show of wisdom pays off well.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Use diplomacy in dealing with others and you get along just fine provided you show you enjoy them despite any pressures on either side. Drive with particular care, especially on the highways and byways. Think.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You are tempted to put all your eggs in one basket and could certainly regret it later, so think before you act. Steer clear of a business person who acts in a confusing manner. Show more affection for mate in p.m.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You had better think that plan over again before you make the radical changes you are tempted to make. Be sure you think before you speak, especially with higher-ups. Don't say things you will have to retract later.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You need to get into behind-the-scenes work so you can take right action soon, so avoid public limelight. The latter could prove detrimental to your best interests now. Add to present security.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Rather than criticize good pals, be sure you pay compliments where due, then you make big headway with them. Get out to that social affair, but show courtesy and kindness to all. A fine new friend can be made.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Make sure you do not argue with a powerful person, or make radical changes where your vocation is concerned, or you would soon regret it. Build up your credit. Get bills paid that are important.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be one of those fascinating young people who is a troubleshooter; teach early not to create problems just for the fun of solving them, but to wait until they actually arise before tackling them. Your offspring understands the underlying factors of any situation and therefore can remove the effects by getting at the cause. Give as fine an education as you can and slant it along such lines, whether boy or girl. Sports are a must here.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

by LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

Some time ago you wrote that there is now a method that most people can learn to guard against the possibility of drowning. Can you describe this in your column?

Mr. T. W. V., Pa.

Dear Mr. V.: About ten years ago, a book was published by Prentice-Hall on a technique known as "Downproofing." The writer, Fred Lanouse, described a series of steps in the water which used the buoyancy of the body to prevent drowning.

Apparently, the method can be taught to everyone. When breathing is properly controlled and when the swimmer is taught to avoid panic, floating and survival by this method are highly possible.

Unfortunately it is virtually impossible to describe in words the exact technique. The photographs in the book are very simple to follow.

With practice, which is not difficult, children and adults can survive the hazards of swimming in lakes, pools, and oceans. The technique has been so successful that the Armed Forces have been using it in survival training programs.

Is there any danger to the use of large quantities of Vitamin A for acne of the face? Many girls in my high school class use it because somebody read that Vitamin A is good for clearing up the complexion.

Miss E.M., Iowa

Dear Miss M.: The body has an excellent protective device against the overuse of most vitamins, and eliminates them readily from the body.

This is not true of Vitamin A. It has been recognized for a long time that the overuse of Vitamin A is potentially dangerous. "Hyper-vitaminosis A," or an increased amount of vitamin in the body, has been reported in adolescents who have been using large doses of Vitamin A for acne. This is associated with very definite toxic reactions in the body.

Large doses are no more effective than normal, suggested doses. Under a doctor's direction, a teenager should not use more than 6,000 units of Vitamin A daily.

The hazards of overuse of Vitamin A are sufficiently important to call forth new legislation against over-the-counter purchase of this vitamin.

There is another reason why it should not be used for acne without a doctor's approval. When once he definitely diagnoses the condition there are a number of excellent methods of treatment that may be more effective than Vitamin A alone.

Entente

By JEFFERY HART

"The South Atlantic could become a Portuguese-Brazilian sea," recently exclaimed Admiral Reboledo e Silva, former chief-of-staff of the Portuguese navy. Indeed, though it has been little noticed here, the growing rapprochement between Portugal and Brazil promises to be one of the more hopeful international developments, and a factor making for stability in both southern Africa and Latin America.

The emergence of such regional groupings can provide an alternative political and economic structure as American influence declines under the pressure of neo-isolationism. Unless such alternative structures do emerge, the vacuums created by the American withdrawal can easily be exploited by the Soviets, who are in anything but a neo-isolationist mood.

In that light, the energetic diplomacy taking place during the past six months between Lisbon and Brasilia acquires an added significance. Last June, Portuguese finance minister Joao Augusto Dias Rosas announced, after discussions with Delfim Netto, his Brazilian counterpart, that Portuguese exports would enjoy "free port" facilities in Rio and Santos, while Brazilian goods will have the same privilege in Lisbon, Angola, and Mozambique. These arrangements are expected to be a complemented by far-reaching commercial and industrial agreements. Portuguese capital will play a role in Brazilian development, notably in heavy machinery and cement. The Brazilian national oil company, Petrobras, is preparing to undertake a prospecting mission in Portuguese Africa. According to Dias Rosas, a Portuguese-Brazilian investment bank will operate in South Africa and Rhodesia, providing, moreover, ready access for private foreign capital to those areas.

These developments promise to be very advantageous for both Brazil and Portugal.

With a population of 96 million, which grows at an average of 10 per cent a year, and a phenomenally expanding economy — machine tools, appliances, and leather goods having far surpassed the traditional coffee exports — Brazil has become the giant of Latin America. Brazilian companies are now embarked on a trade offensive not only in Latin America but in Europe and Africa as well. The emerging special relationship with Portugal will open markets in Angola and Mozambique to Brazilian products.

The view from Lisbon is equally rosy. Diplomatically isolated from much of Europe because of its African wars, Portugal has nevertheless hung on in Africa for a decade, the guerilla movements making little headway. Now this effort seems about to pay off, as Portugal turns southward and westward, its developing strategic entente with Brazil strengthened by ties of history and culture. On April 22, for example, a statute came into effect affording equal rights to Brazilians living in Portugal and vice versa. The Portuguese position in Africa will be greatly strengthened by its relationship with Brazilian economic and even military power. Finally, even the Common Market, though it finds the regimes in Lisbon and Brasilia politically distasteful, must eventually come to terms with so potentially powerful and economic grouping.

Not long ago, I strolled on the bleak and windswept Cape of St. Vincent, the southwestern extremity of Portugal jutting out into the gray waters of the Atlantic. Here, on this very spot, Prince Henry the Navigator had his famous school; here was that center of intellectual energy from which Spanish and Portuguese captains went forth to extend the European order outward over so much of the globe. And today it is good to think that perhaps, with the United States in a phase of at least temporary withdrawal, a version of that same spirit is moving creatively to fill the resulting gap.

LOVE IS — Tom and Patricia Crawford were married two weeks ago, and since then they have been working together. Tom is a gar-

O'Brien Says Demo HQ Was Bugged

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Democratic party chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien says he can prove that party offices actually were bugged and his lawyer intends to question seven top Republicans about it.

O'Brien, who was chairman at the time of a break-in at Democratic National Committee headquarters, told a news conference Tuesday he has new evidence to prove that eavesdropping devices actually were installed for a time.

Meanwhile, Democratic presidential nominee George McGovern accused President Nixon of at least indirect responsibility for the incident.

"What is to prevent an administration that cooperates with that kind of thing from wiretapping your house, or your union hall, or something else they want to get?" McGovern told a labor rally in Lordstown, Ohio.

The White House declined comment on McGovern's statement. One of those arrested was James W. McCord, security chief for the Nixon campaign committee.

Bugging devices were confiscated at the time of the arrest.

According To Boyle

By HAL BOYLL

NEW YORK (AP) — Nothing could improve the human race more than to have every baby born with a button in its lower lip and a buttonhole in its upper lip.

As it is now, the average infant is born not with a silver spoon in its mouth — but one of its own feet. And throughout the rest of its life it keeps putting that foot back in its mouth.

If you want to live peacefully, learn to turn off the lip flow when you don't know what you're talking about. Silence is more than golden; silence is safety.

Here are a few remarks to avoid if you don't want to put your foot in your mouth, shoe and all:

"Why did you want to get a divorce from him, anyway? He always seemed like a pretty swell guy to me."

"What's a pretty girl like you doing in the women's liberation movement? You look intelligent."

"Before I tell you how I think it fits you, let me ask you one question. Can you still take the suit back?"

"You've got nobody to blame but yourself."

"Did you ever stop to think that if you didn't live the way you do, you wouldn't feel the way you do?"

"If I bail you out of this, it'll only get you into the habit of expecting someone else to solve your problems for you."

"Of course, I don't doubt your word, but if you've lost all that much weight, I don't understand why it doesn't show more."

"Are you sure you aren't just feeling sorry for yourself?"

"I'm not exactly sure I should tell an off-color joke like this to my own mother-in-law, but here goes..."

Smog Habit

When Londoners were told several years ago that their city was no longer the dirty place it had been for years, there were many disbelievers. But the visitor who had not been in the city for several years noticed the improvement right away.

What cleaned up London were stringent laws against air pollution, strictly enforced. Could this pattern be repeated elsewhere? It may already be going through a rerun — in Los Angeles.

Los Angeles, the smog capital of the United States, the city which just once would like to be the brunt of a comedian's joke on some subject other than smog, has statistics to prove it isn't what it used to be.

In 1958, there were 226 days in which most residents of the city experienced eye irritations. By 1971, this measurement had improved to 125 days. Sixteen years ago, the concentration of ozone reached 10 parts per million in all but a handful of days in the year. In 1971, this level was reached in only 210 days.

There is other evidence of improvement also, although Los Angeles still has its decidedly bad days. Chances are, as in London, the occasional visitor will be the first to notice the improvement. Residents have lived with it so long they don't believe the sun when they see it.

No Substitute

Food fads are under fire again on several fronts. People would be healthier and wealthier, say many doctors, if they spent their money for nourishing food and stayed away from food supplements.

America's annual bill for health foods, vitamin pills and the like comes to an estimated $1 billion. That will buy a lot of meat and potatoes and green vegetables and milk, doctors point out, and at the same time provide all the vitamins and minerals needed.

The extravagant claims of food fadists, which exceed any basic medical evidence, appeal chiefly to the man who eats on the run and the woman who is allergic to hot stoves. But for most persons there is no substitute for a leisurely meal, cooked with tender loving care.

And if the day ever comes, as some predict, when dinner is served up in the form of a pill, that will be the time to picket the kitchen.

FRIDAY'S HOROSCOPE

TENDENCIES: You are all too apt to state some truth so badly that another with whom you want to keep on good terms takes offense. You then find you have made an opponent of one you never thought possible to have against you. But if you keep tactful and refrain from critical and unwise comments, you can hold such friendship with ease.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You want to go off to some new interest you know little about at the cost of present good set-up, so think twice and refrain. New contacts are fine, but don't shed current allies as a result. Keep poised.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Endeavoring to get out of some responsibility you have assumed could really cause you trouble today, so follow through instead and show you have real character. Use patience where mate is concerned. Forget that temper.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Troublesome matters with associates can be handled satisfactorily if you are willing to listen to their views more. Do nothing to start an argument. Forget that desire to be kingpin — remember it is a partnership.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Why don't you get right down to all that work you have on hand and be charming about it? This gets you back into the good graces of bigwigs. Taking health treatments simply is a must now.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You want to run off to fun places at the cost of important work, etc., so stop such mistaken thoughts and carry through wisely. Get into creative things during spare time. Derive much pleasure from them.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Don't let some unkind remark at home touch off a big argument, but take it in your stride, and quietly find out what brought it on. Keep busy at whatever is you have to do. A show of wisdom pays off well.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) Use diplomacy in dealing with others and you get along just fine provided you show you enjoy them despite any pressures on either side. Drive with particular care, especially on the highways and byways. Think.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You are tempted to put all your eggs in one basket and could certainly regret it later, so think before you act. Steer clear of a business partner who acts in a confusing manner. Show more affection for mate in p.m.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You had better think that plan over again before you make the radical changes you are tempted to make. Be sure you think before you speak, especially with higher-ups. Don't say things you will have to retract later.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You need to get into behind-the-scenes work so you can take right action soon, so avoid public limelight. The latter could prove detrimental to your best interests now. Add to present security.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Rather than criticize good pals, be sure you pay compliments where due, then you make big headway with them. Get out to that social affair, but show courtesy and kindness to all. A fine new friend can be made.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Make sure you do not argue with a powerful person, or make radical changes where your vocation is concerned, or you would soon regret it. Build up your credit. Get bills paid that are important.

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

by LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

Some time ago you wrote that there is now a method that most people can learn to guard against the possibility of drowning. Can you describe this in your column?

Mr. T. W. V., Pa.

About ten years ago, a book was published by Prentice-Hall on a technique known as "Downproofing." The writer, Fred Lanoue, described a series of steps in the water which used the buoyancy of the body to prevent drowning. Apparently, the method can be taught to everyone. When breathing is properly controlled and when the swimmer is taught to avoid panic, floating and survival by this method are highly possible.

Unfortunately it is virtually impossible to describe in words the exact technique. The photographs in the book are very simple to follow.

With practice, which is not difficult, children and adults can survive the hazards of swimming in lakes, pools, and oceans. The technique has been so successful that the Armed Forces have been using it in survival training programs.

Is there any danger to the use of large quantities of Vitamin A for acne of the face? Many girls in my high school class use it because somebody read that Vitamin A is good for clearing up the complexion.

Miss E.M., Iowa

The body has an excellent protective device against the overuse of most vitamins, and eliminates them readily from the body.

This is not true of Vitamin A. It has been recognized for a long time that the overuse of Vitamin A is potentially dangerous. "Hyper-vitaminosis A," or an increased amount of vitamin in the body, has been reported in adolescents who have been using large doses of Vitamin A for acne. This is associated with very definite toxic reactions in the body.

Large doses are no more effective than normal, suggested doses. Under a doctor's direction, a teenager should not use more than 6,000 units of Vitamin A daily.

The hazards of overuse of Vitamin A are sufficiently important to call forth new legislation against over-the-counter purchase of this vitamin.

There is another reason why it should not be used for acne without a doctor's approval. When once he definitely diagnoses the condition there are a number of excellent methods of treatment that may be more effective than Vitamin A alone.

Entente

By JEFFERY HART

"The South Atlantic could become a Portuguese-Brazilian sea," recently exclaimed Admiral Rehoredo e Silva, former chief-of-staff of the Portuguese navy. Indeed, though it has been little noticed here, the growing rapprochement between Portugal and Brazil promises to be one of the more hopeful international developments, and a factor making for stability in both southern Africa and Latin America.

The emergence of such regional groupings can provide an alternative political and economic structure as American influence declines under the pressure of neo-isolationism. Unless such alternative structures do emerge, the vacuum created by the American withdrawal can easily be exploited by the Soviets, who are in anything but a neo-isolationist mood.

In that light, the energetic diplomacy taking place during the past six months between Lisbon and Brasilia acquires an added significance. Last June, Portuguese finance minister Joao Augusto Dias Rosas announced, after discussions with Delfim Netto, his Brazilian counterpart, that Portuguese exports would enjoy "free port" facilities in Rio and Santos, while Brazilian goods will have the same privilege in Lisbon, Angola, and Mozambique. These arrangements are expected to be a complemented by far-reaching commercial and industrial agreements. Portuguese capital will play a role in Brazilian development, notably in heavy machinery and cement. The Brazilian national oil company, Petrobras, is preparing to undertake a prospecting mission in Portuguese Africa. According to Dias Rosas, a Portuguese-Brazilian investment bank will operate in South Africa and Rhodesia, providing, moreover, ready access for private foreign capital to those areas.

These developments promise to be very advantageous for both Brazil and Portugal. With a population of 96 million, which grows at an average of 10 per cent a year, and a phenomenally expanding economy — machine tools, appliances, and leather goods having far surpassed the traditional coffee exports — Brazil has become the giant of Latin America. Brazilian companies are now embarked on a trade offensive not only in Latin America but in Europe and Africa as well. The emerging special relationship with Portugal will open markets in Angola and Mozambique to Brazilian products.

The view from Lisbon is equally rosy. Diplomatically isolated from much of Europe because of its African wars, Portugal has nevertheless hung on in Africa for a decade, the guerrilla movements making little headway. Now this effort seems about to pay off, as Portugal turns southward and westward, its developing strategic entente with Brazil strengthened by ties of history and culture. On April 22, for example, a statute came into effect affording equal rights to Brazilians living in Portugal and vice versa. The Portuguese position in Africa will be greatly strengthened by its relationship with Brazilian economic and even military power. Finally, even the Common Market, though it finds the regimes in Lisbon and Brasilia politically distasteful, must eventually come to terms with so potentially powerful and economic grouping.

Not long ago, I strolled on the bleak and windswept Cape of St. Vincent, the southwestern extremity of Portugal jutting out into the gray waters of the Atlantic. Here, on this very spot, Prince Henry the Navigator had his famous school; here was that center of intellectual energy from which Spanish and Portuguese captains went forth to extend the European order outward over so much of the globe. And today it is good to think that perhaps, with the United States in a phase of at least temporary withdrawal, a version of that same spirit is moving creatively to fill the resulting gap.

O'Brien Says Demo HQ Was Bugged

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Democratic party chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien says he can prove that party offices actually were bugged and his lawyer intends to question seven top Republicans about it.

O'Brien, who was chairman at the time of a break-in at Democratic National Committee headquarters, told a news conference Tuesday he has new evidence to prove that eavesdropping devices actually were installed for a time.

Meanwhile, Democratic presidential nominee George McGovern accused President Nixon of at least indirect responsibility for the incident.

"What is to prevent an administration that cooperates with that kind of thing from wiretapping your house, or your union hall, or something else they want to get?" McGovern told a labor rally in Lordstown, Ohio.

The White House declined comment on McGovern's statement. One of those arrested was James W. McCord, security chief for the Nixon campaign committee.

Bugging devices were confiscated at the time of the arrest.

According To Boyle

By HAL BOYLL

NEW YORK (AP) — Nothing could improve the human race more than to have every baby born with a button in its lower lip and a buttonhole in its upper lip.

As it is now, the average infant is born not with a silver spoon in its mouth — but one of its own feet. And throughout the rest of its life it keeps putting that foot back in its mouth.

If you want to live peacefully, learn to turn off the lip flow when you don't know what you're talking about. Silence is more than golden; silence is safety.

Here are a few remarks to avoid if you don't want to put your foot in your mouth, shoe and all:

"Why did you want to get a divorce from him, anyway? He always seemed like a pretty swell guy to me."

"What's a pretty girl like you doing in the women's liberation movement? You look intelligent."

"Before I tell you how I think it fits you, let me ask you one question. Can you still take the suit back?"

"You've got nobody to blame but yourself."

"Did you ever stop to think that if you didn't live the way you do, you wouldn't feel the way you do?"

"If I bail you out of this, it'll only get you into the habit of expecting someone else to solve your problems for you."

"Of course, I don't doubt your word, but if you've lost all that much weight, I don't understand why it doesn't show more."

"Are you sure you aren't just feeling sorry for yourself?"

"I'm not exactly sure I should tell an off-color joke like this to my own mother-in-law, but here goes—"

"Tell me something, will you? Why is it when a guy like me takes a girl like you out to dinner, she always feels like she has to order the most expensive steak on the menu? Don't you girls ever get steak at home?"

EDITOR'S NOTE — We welcome letters to the editor. In order to be considered for publication, they must bear the correct name and address of the writer. Anonymous letters and those signed with the request that signatures be withheld will not be accepted for publication. Opinions expressed in this column are those of the writers and not necessarily those of The Herald.

Dear Editor,

It has been said, "if you care about a child you take the time to discipline him, if you don't care, you don't bother."

I support the Circleville School Board, Superintendent, principals and teachers in any restrictions they feel necessary to place on our young people. I feel it shows they really care.

I also believe I had a very direct opportunity to formulate the present dress code because I voted in the election that placed the members on the board. Let's face it, if parents still had "control" as they did when the Bill of Rights was written, a dress code wouldn't be necessary.

It is impossible for every individual to be satisfied when a rule or law is passed, whether it be local, national or world wide. We always have and always will live by laws, some we like and some we do not. It's about time a number of our young people realize this and if their parents won't teach them, then it is the educator's job to try.

Anyone who stays in the teaching profession or any other field of public education must really care about our youth and the future of our Nation, because it certainly isn't the prestige, public support or fantastic pay that keeps them there.

Watts Community Festival Opens

LOS ANGELES (AP) — For the seventh summer since the Watts riot, blacks are turning their energy to a Summer Festival celebrating black culture.

Like many other carnivals, this one has all the trimmings: rides, food and curio concessions, an art show, exhibits by the armed forces, films, plays, a parade — plus a moon rock, gospel music, and a concert by some of the giants of the recording industry.

Festival head Tommy Jacquette said the purpose is to confirm the community's cultural identity.

"We as a people comprise a nation — not a political but a cultural nation, much like the Jews in America today," he said.

The theme of black culture dominates. Men stroll about in dashikis, loose-fitting African shirts. Some women are dressed in ankle-length African-style robes, their hair wrapped in a wound cloth.

Art concessions and exhibits feature paintings and sculptures with African overtones — jungle foliage, a black arm wrapped in chains.

Technology Triumphant; Commodes Set For Space

By VERN HAUGLAND
AP Aviation Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The space agency disclosed today development of a concept for the first "bathroom commode system" for spacecraft.

The device would enable space travelers to use a toilet not greatly dissimilar from the ones employed on earth.

Astronauts previously employed uncomfortable and awkward detachable receptacles for disposition of body wastes.

A prototype of the space commode is being developed for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration by Hamilton Standard Division of United Aircraft Corp., Windsor Locks, Conn., under a $238,000 contract with the Manned Spacecraft Center, Houston.

Its first operational use, after testing, would come in the Space Shuttle, a reusable craft the size of a DC 9 jet airliner, which is to go into operation in 1980.

The Shuttle will carry a four-man team in its crew compartment, but will be able to accommodate up to a dozen passengers—scientists, technicians and observers—in its 60-foot-long payload bay.

NASA said in a new release that high velocity air streams will compensate for the earth's gravity to force waste matter into special chambers in the space commode.

The waste matter will be vacuum dried, stored, and chemically treated to prevent odor and bacterial growth.

'Heads To Roll' Over Break-In, Saxbe Believes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. William Saxbe, R-Ohio, predicted Wednesday "heads would roll" as a result of the federal grand jury probe into a break-in at the Democratic National Headquarters.

But the heads will not be too highly placed, according to inside information Saxbe said he has. He said he understood the incident was a "low-level" one initiated by "someone with a cloak-and-dagger complex."

Two of the five men arrested for the June 17 break-in at the headquarters in the Watergate Hotel have been linked to the Committee to Re-elect the President.

Saxbe said his source, whom he did not identify, expects the grand jury probe to "come up with the answers" to the break-in within a week.

King To Meet With McGovern

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio AFL-CIO President Frank King says he is willing to meet with Democratic presidential nominee George McGovern, "but this doesn't mean any change in my stand."

"I am committed to a position of strict neutrality," he reiterated Wednesday, because the AFL-CIO nationally, under pressure from President George Meany, has voted to remain neutral in the election.

"The national organization has exclusive rights in presidential elections," noted King, who often is at odds with party leaders. "That means as president of the Ohio AFL-CIO, under union rules, my position is locked in."

Peron To Return To Homeland Soon

MADRID (AP) — Juan D. Peron's personal representative in Buenos Aires says the former Argentine dictator will return to his homeland this year.

But Hector J. Campora indicated in talking with newsmen Tuesday that Peron, ousted by a military coup 17 years ago, probably would not return in time to file his candidacy for president by the Aug. 25 filing deadline for next year's election.

Technology Triumphant; Commodities Set For Space

By VERN HAUGLAND
AP Aviation Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The space agency disclosed today development of a concept for the first "bathroom commode system" for spacecraft.

The device would enable space travelers to use a toilet not greatly dissimilar from the ones employed on earth.

Astronauts previously employed uncomfortable and awkward detachable receptacles for disposition of body wastes.

A prototype of the space com-mode is being developed for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration by Hamilton Standard Division of United Aircraft Corp., Windsor Locks, Conn., under a $238,000 contract with the Manned Spacecraft Center, Houston.

Its first operational use, after testing, would come in the Space Shuttle, a reusable craft the size of a DC 9 jet airliner, which is to go into operation in

The Shuttle will carry a four-man team in its crew compartment, but will be able to accommodate up to a dozen passengers—scientists, technicians and observers—in its 60-foot-long payload bay.

NASA said in a new release that high velocity air streams will compensate for the earth's gravity to force waste matter into special chambers in the space commode.

The waste matter will be vacuum dried, stored, and chemically treated to prevent odor and bacterial growth.

Watts Community Festival Opens

LOS ANGELES (AP) — For the seventh summer since the Watts riot, blacks are turning their energy to a Summer Festival celebrating black culture.

Like many other carnivals, this one has all the trimmings:
rides, food and curio concessions, an art show, exhibits by the armed forces, films, plays, a parade — plus a moon rock, gospel music, and a concert by some of the giants of the recording industry.

Festival head Tommy Jacquette said the purpose is to confirm the community's cultural identity.

"We as a people comprise a nation — not a political but a cultural nation, much like the Jews in America today," he said.

The theme of black culture dominates. Men stroll about in dashikis, loose-fitting African shirts. Some women are dressed in ankle-length African-style robes, their hair wrapped in a wound cloth.

Art concessions and exhibits feature paintings and sculptures with African overtones — jungle foliage, a black arm wrapped in chains.

festival is held and the swept streets around it contrast with the scene seven years ago, in 1965, when five days of rioting and burning left 34 dead and $40 million in damages.

Streets then listened with broken glass and already smog-gy skies glowered with smoke from burning buildings. National Guardsmen patrolled with machine guns, firemen wore bullet-proof vests, and the people of Watts were afraid to walk their own streets.

Jacquette, 29, said armed revolution for minorities in America is insane. What's important, he added, is cultural revolution.

Jacquette, who has been a Black Panther and was for a time associated with a local militant group of blacks called "US," leaned back against a picnic table and surveyed the bustling scene.

"No political activist or political group has been able to generate similar participation in terms of the number of people like the Watts Summer Festival," he said.

The festival, which started Wednesday, is expected to attract more than 100,000 people before it closes Sunday night.

The schedule of events includes plays and films like "Buck and the Preacher,"
"The Legend of Nigger Charlie," and a documentary on the life of Malcolm X, as well as a political forum,
"Which Way Do We Go From Here?"

'Heads To Roll' Over Break-In, Saxbe Believes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen.
William Saxbe, R-Ohio, predicted Wednesday "heads would roll" as a result of the federal grand jury probe into a break-in at the Democratic National Headquarters.

But the heads will not be too highly placed, according to inside information Saxbe said he has. He said he understood the incident was a "low-level" one initiated by "someone with a cloak-and-dagger complex."

Two of the five men arrested for the June 17 break-in at the headquarters in the Watergate Hotel have been linked to the Committee to Re-elect the President.

Saxbe said his source, whom he did not identify, expects the grand jury probe to "come up with the answers" to the break-in within a week.

The Rev. Vernon D. Ridenour of Canal Winchester officiated the double ring ceremony.

The couple is residing at 200 Niagara Ave., Buffalo, N.Y., following a wedding trip to Pompano Beach, Fla.

The church was decorated with altar arrangements of white daisies, yellow mums and baby's breath. Adding to the setting were baskets of yellow mums and zinnias in the vestibule.

Miss Brenda Mills, organist, and Mr. and Mrs. Don Frank, vocalists, presented a half-hour of music preceding the wedding.

The bride's chapel length veil of illusion was gathered to a satin covered cap accented with alencon lace and she carried a bouquet of yellow and white daisies and baby's breath with streamers tied in lover's knots.

Professor Claims Rights Violated

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — Claiming his free speech was violated, former English professor H. Bruce Franklin, 37, has filed suit here in an attempt to regain his teaching job at Stanford University.

The self-described Maoist revolutionary was a tenured associate professor when the Stanford Board of Trustees voted 20-2 to fire him last January. The board acted after a lengthy campus hearing found Franklin guilty of inciting students to violent acts during antiwar demonstrations in January and February 1971.

The hymn "Amazing Grace" was sung by Clarence Robinson. Frances Cupp played a piano solo entitled "He Touched Me," a favorite selection of Rev. Albaugh. Joan Boyer read the words of a favorite hymn of Mrs. Albaugh entitled "Others."

The dinner, fellowship and entertainment were brought to a close with prayer by Clarence Boyer.

Sisters Of Charity Involved In Dispute

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Sisters of Charity replied they intend to go on with the business of education after the Citizens for Educational Freedom (CEF), a Catholic parents group which helped lobby for aid to parochial schools, charged that "radical" nuns had taken over two institutions.

The CEF newsletter criticized the sisters for a recent seminar on the future of man at Mount St. Joseph College On-The-Ohio and religious instruction at Marion High School in Cincinnati.

Miss Lynn Fraunfelter Weds Peter Mavromichalis

MRS. PETER MAVROMICHALIS

The marriage of Miss Lynn Fraunfelter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Fraunfelter, Route 4, Circleville, and Mr. Peter Mavromichalis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Michaels, Cleveland, took place 4:30 p.m. Aug. 6th at St. Jacob's Lutheran Church in Tilton, Ohio. The Rev. Vernon D. Ridenour of Canal Winchester officiated the double ring ceremony.

The couple is residing at 200 Niagara Ave., Buffalo, N.Y., following a wedding trip to Pompano Beach, Fla.

The church was decorated with altar arrangements of white daisies, yellow mums and baby's breath. Baskets of white and yellow gladioli were placed at each side and baby's breath tied in white satin bows marked the pews. Adding to the setting were baskets of yellow mums and zinnias in the vestibule.

Miss Brenda Mills, organist, and Mr. and Mrs. Don Frank, vocalists, presented a half-hour of music preceding the wedding.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her parents. She styled her formal length sleeveless gown of white satin with an overskirt of white organza. The bodice was covered with alencon lace and was enhanced with a yellow chignon band at the waist. Petite yellow hand-pleated chiffon bordered the skirt dipping into pleats. The bride's chapel length veil of illusion was gathered to a satin covered cap accented with alencon lace and she carried a bouquet of yellow and white daisies and baby's breath with streamers tied in lover's knots.

Miss Vicki Fraunfelter, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Greg Fraunfelter, sister-in-law of the bride and the Misses Debbie and Cathy Speakman, cousins of the bride.

The attendants wore identical gowns of lime green floral polyester chiffon in gold and white. The bodices featured empire waists and scooped necklines. The maid of honor's gown was tied with yellow ribbon at the waist while the bridesmaids wore green ribbon with the streamers falling to the hemline of the floor length gowns. They carried bouquets of white daisies and baby's breath.

The flower girl, Denise Valentine, wore a white satin gown which the bride made identically to her own.

Ring bearer was Jason Valentine. Both the flower girl and ring bearer are children of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Valentine.

Mr. Richard Manley of East Rochester, Ohio, was best man. Ushers were Mr. Robert Baker of Cleveland and Mr. Bill Bleschmid and Mr. Jim Nehas of Solon.

The bride's mother selected for her daughter's wedding an apricot street length silk shantung dress edged with pearls on the bodice, a matching lace coat, and accessories.

The bridegroom's mother wore a pink and blue chiffon street length dress with beading enhancing the waistband and silver accessories. Corsages worn by both mothers were of white daisies.

A reception on the lawn at the Fraunfelter home followed the ceremony. The four tiered cake covered with miniature yellow and white daisies cen-

Professor Claims Rights Violated

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — Claiming his free speech was violated, former English professor H. Bruce Franklin, 37, has filed suit here in an attempt to regain his teaching job at Stanford University.

The self-described Maoist revolutionary was a tenured associate professor when the Stanford Board of Trustees voted 20-2 to fire him last January. The board acted after a lengthy campus hearing found Franklin guilty of inciting students to violent acts during antiwar demonstrations in January and February 1971.

MISS SHARON ROLLINS

Mr. and Mrs. Herman D. Rollins, 1058 Mulberry Road, announce the engagement of their daughter, Sharon, to Monty McClurg, son of the Rev. and Mrs. Carl McClurg, Route 1, Lockbourne.

Sisters Of Charity Involved In Dispute

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Sisters of Charity replied they intend to go on with the business of education after the Citizens for Educational Freedom (CEF), a Catholic parents group which helped lobby for aid to parochial schools, charged that "radical" nuns had taken over two institutions.

The CEF newsletter criticized the sisters for a recent seminar on the future of man at Mount St. Joseph College On-The-Ohio and religious instruction at Marion High School in Cincinnati.

Television For The Blind Developed In California

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Two researchers have developed an electronic system which projects television images into the skin of blind persons to help them discern objects, measure distances, and even read normal print.

Widespread practical use of the device is still several years off, the scientists say, but eventually it could enable the blind to move about freely and enter professions from which they have previously been excluded.

The experimental system is the product of eight years of work by Drs. Carter C. Collins and Paul Bachy-Rita at the University of the Pacific's Smith-Kettlewell Institute of Visual Research here.

A person using the portable system wears a pair of eye-glass frames on which is mounted a tiny television camera made up of hundreds of transistors. The camera is connected through a vest-worn battery network to a shield of electrodes taped to the subject's stomach. The entire unit weighs less than five pounds.

Firefighters Urge Change In Policies

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — A Cincinnati-based effort to seek safer firefighting procedures has drawn the backing of the International Association of Firefighters.

Local officials report the association in convention in Los Angeles approved a resolution Tuesday asking development of new procedures and guidelines for dealing with blazes in vacant buildings.

The resolution, drawn up by Cincinnati firemen, noted the loss of firemen's lives in such blazes, including nine deaths in a Boston fire in June.

Joseph Patterson, president of Cincinnati Firefighters Local 476, said the local was not suggesting that vacant buildings be allowed to burn, but rather that safer procedures be developed to combat such fires.

Cincinnati Fire Chief Bert Lugganani later reasserted his earlier position that no new procedures for fighting such blazes are necessary here.

"Procedures have been developed," he said, under which "if there are no people involved, we use heavy lines from outside the building until we knock down the bulk of the fire."

Lugganani says there is less danger in entering a burning structure than there is in allowing a structure to burn out of control until it collapses.

Wooldridge Trial Set For Jan. 9

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The trial of William O. Wooldridge, the Army's former sergeant-major, and three others accused of taking kickbacks from enlisted men's club operators has been delayed until Jan. 9.

It had been scheduled to start Tuesday but federal court officials said it was continued so attorneys will have time to collect evidence from witnesses abroad.

Television For The Blind Developed In California

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Two researchers have developed an electronic system which projects television images into the skin of blind persons to help them discern objects, measure distances, and even read normal print.

Widespread practical use of the device is still several years off, the scientists say, but eventually it could enable the blind to move about freely and enter professions from which they have previously been excluded.

The experimental system is the product of eight years of work by Drs. Carter C. Collins and Paul Bachy-Rita at the University of the Pacific's Smith-Kettlewell Institute of Visual Research here.

A person using the portable system wears a pair of eye-glass frames on which is mounted a tiny television camera made up of hundreds of transistors.

The camera is connected through a vest-worn battery network to a shield of elec-

Firefighters Urge Change In Policies

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — A Cincinnati-based effort to seek safer firefighting procedures has drawn the backing of the International Association of Firefighters.

Local officials report the association in convention in Los Angeles approved a resolution Tuesday asking development of new procedures and guidelines for dealing with blazes in vacant buildings.

The resolution, drawn up by Cincinnati firemen, noted the loss of firemen's lives in such blazes, including nine deaths in a Boston fire in June.

Joseph Patterson, president of Cincinnati Firefighters Local 476, said the local was not suggesting that vacant buildings be allowed to burn, but rather that safer procedures be developed to combat such fires.

Cincinnati Fire Chief Bert Lugannani later reasserted his earlier position that no new procedures for fighting such blazes are necessary here.

"Procedures have been developed," he said, under which "if there are no people involved, we use heavy lines from outside the building until we knock down the bulk of the fire."

Lugannani says there is less danger in entering a burning structure than there is in allowing a structure to burn out of control until it collapses.

trodes taped to the subject's stomach. The entire unit weighs less than five pounds. When the transistors scan objects in front of them, they send the exact pattern to the corresponding electrodes, which then trace the image on the stomach in a series of electrical impulses.

"Thus if we held up the shape of a square in front of a person wearing the camera, he would feel the electrodes literally drawing a square on his stomach," explained Collins.

The electrical stimulation is safe and painless, Collins said. He described it as feeling "like a light vibration, or a fly crawling across the skin."

He said the stomach was chosen because "it offers a large area of sensitive skin" and can support the square-foot matrix of 4mm diameter electrodes.

A blind person using the system can learn to "read" the alphabet in "a few dozen hours," Collins said. The system has been used on about 70 blind subjects at the institute, and several sighted volunteers wearing blindfolds. Collins said the units might eventually be available for private use at a cost of about $5,000 apiece.

He feels the system's most immediate use would be for educating the congenitally blind and rehabilitating persons who have lost their sight.

Sneek-A-Peek

By Pickaway County Library Staff

Books for young adults encompass a wide range. Some are fairly easy to read, written for the junior high level. Others are really adult in story content and reading level. In fact, many adults enjoy browsing in the young adult section of the library. Here are notes on some recent additions in this department.

Written for young adults, "You Bet Your Boots I Can" will be enjoyed by oldsters for its nostalgic writing. Its heroine is fourteen, the year is 1902. She wears fascinators, dresses that are shirred at the waist, and ruffles on her corset cover. She lives in Nebraska, and, while she suspects that she is something of a snob, she makes horse sense judgments. Her comments on frontier society and its pretentious ambitions are both comic and tart. Jessie Hosford wrote this book. One suspects that it is based on her own family history.

"Young and Female" is a refreshing reminder of the early struggles of women's lib. It contains personal accounts, most from autobiographies, of the turning points in the lives of eight American women. They are not bra-burning, insistent voices. Instead, they show tentative reaching for feminine identity. There are chapters about Shirley MacLane, Shirley Chisholm, Dorothy Day, Emily Hahn, Margaret Sanger, Althea Gibson, Edna Ferber, and Margaret Buroke White. Pat Ross edited the book.

There is a trend toward realism in young people's books today. "Stranger on the Road" is a typical example. Di, fifteen and not quite grown up, lived alone with her divorced mother. But when she was presented with a new daddy, she split. With a knapsack and twenty dollars, she walked, hitchhiked, worked and rode buses across the country. Along the way, she learned a lot about herself. Most important of all was the fact that she became acquainted with her true self. Armed with this wide information, she returned home, prepared to accept the situations which life handed to her. Caroline Crane is the author.

Science fiction is very popular with young adults. "Dimension A" by L.P. Davis is a ringer which will delight science fiction fans. Its background is English, but not unfamiliar. It explores the theory of simultaneous worlds.

"Gentle Ben" is Walt Morey's most famous book. In "Scrub Dog of Alaska" he has another winner. Here is a dog story to touch the hearts of people who have no need for thoroughbreds. Scrub is a memorable character and will be cherished along with Ben the bear and Gloomy Gus.

Report 29 Cases Of Meningitis

CINCINNATI (AP) — Health officials report 29 cases of aseptic meningitis, described as a mild infection, in the Cincinnati area since Aug. 1.

Dr. Calvin Linnemann of the University of Cincinnati Virology Laboratory, said hospitalization was standard procedure for children under three. While there was no cure, the children are kept in case it becomes serious. Children normally overcome the disease in six to 10 days, he said.

Symptoms include headache, vomiting, fever and stiff neck.

Ohio Democratic Convention Date Set

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — If Presidential candidate George McGovern can be there that day, the Ohio Democratic Party will hold its state convention in Cleveland Sept. 23. Chairman William Lavelle announced Tuesday.

Final plans also hinge on the state executive committee's approval of a resolution changing the location from Columbus to Cleveland, Lavelle said.

Mothers Spearhead Fight To Change Children's Television

BY ALEXANDER HIGGINS
Associated Press Writer

NEWTON, Mass. (AP) — A four-year-old fight by a group of Massachusetts mothers aimed at improving the quality of the television programs their children watch has forced removal of prayers from orange juice commercials and cancellation of certain vitamin pill advertising.

There have been other victories for the mothers, who call themselves Action for Children's Television—ACT—but they say their children still see too many commercials and programs to which they should not be subjected.

"It's time for America to realize children are special in the TV they watch," Peggy Charren, ACT chairman, said in an interview.

And to that end the group is continuing its campaign for an end to commercials on children's programs and an improvement in network programming.

ACT, a privately funded pressure group, has been to bat several times before federal agencies. Last fall they told the FCC—and Federal Communications Commission—FCC—that one commercial used during the children's program "Romper Room" on one television station said, in part:

"God is great. God is good. let us thank him for our food; and now you may drink your Tropicana Orange Juice from the Pleasant Hill Dairy."

The commercial is no longer shown, and the producers of the popular nationwide program have made several format changes.

Another action ACT had sought was taken July 18 when it was announced that three major drug companies—Miles Laboratories, Bristol Myers and Hoffman-La Roche—had agreed to withdraw vitamin pill ads from children's programs by Oct. 1.

At FCC hearings last year, ACT had said that iron-fortified vitamin pills were being sold on TV "just like candy," despite medical warnings that too much iron can lead to coma and death.

Mrs. Charren called the actions of the drug companies "socially responsible." But she and other mothers, who began their drive on a shoestring budget in a living room, are far from satisfied with the format of children's television programs.

They have urged the FCC and FCC to end all advertising on these programs on the grounds the commercials are unfair and misleading.

They say they are concerned about the effect commercials have on children as well as the effect commercials have on the programs themselves.

Mrs. Charren says the Association of National Advertisers was wrong when it declared that advertising directed "to children for products and services which are used and consumed by children is appropriate in a society and economy such as ours."

ACT has concluded that the only "reason there is violence on children's television is because it sells. The Neilson ratings show that action attracts large audiences."

As a result they don't expect any revolutionary changes in network programming until federal agencies step in and take action.

For that reason, Mrs. Charren said, ACT has petitioned the FCC to declare children's television a public service and has asked the agency to set aside a minimum number of hours per week during which networks must produce programs for children. They ask that no commercials be carried.

Some forward steps have been taken, Mrs. Charren said. She said some local stations, including the Post-Newsweek stations in Washington and Florida, now cluster their ads at the beginning and end of children's shows. And the National Association of Broadcasters has instituted new rules which will reduce from 16 to 12 the number of minutes per hour allowable for advertising during programs aimed at children.

As for the new fall lineup of children's program to be offered by networks, ACT says it offers little different from years past. Of the 15 hours of network programming on Saturday mornings this fall, 80 per cent will be animated.

"There are almost no live people on children's TV this fall," Mrs. Charren said. "Besides that, almost every program is based on aether."

ACT's founders say the quality of children's programming will change only if parents keep pushing for change. They say they'd like "to get parents to pay as much attention to the TV set as they do to the stove."

And, of course, they'd like more volunteers for their cause, one which now has 1,000 members. They also are seeking more money to feed their efforts.

Two $5,000 grants from the Ford Foundation helped ACT conduct seminars in 1970 and 1972. All operations have been greatly expanded since receipt last year of a $164,500 grant from the Markoe Foundation.

Cincinnati Police In Uproar Over Arrests For Assault

CINCINNATI (AP) — A police furor has arisen over the arrests of three Cincinnati policemen charged with assault following arrests in which force was used.

One officer has been convicted of assault and has filed an appeal.

Officer Timothy Spurlock was convicted by Police Court Judge Clarence Denning Tuesday, but no penalty or court costs were assessed.

He was accused of assaulting Weymond Bryant, 17, while breaking up a sidewalk dice game July 7. Bryant said the officer kicked him. The officer said the youth fell trying to get away, then struck the officer. Bryant was charged with resisting arrest.

"We feel that Judge Denning's ruling was unfortunate and unfair," said Specialist James Frohn, president of the Hamilton County Fraternal Order of Police.

Cincinnati Police Chief Carl Goodin said Wednesday night that the judge's ruling will reduce the ability of police to enforce the law professionally.

"The court decision doesn't represent the law of the land in Cincinnati," he said, "especially when the U.S. Supreme Court decisions clearly indicate that the police officer has the right to stop an individual and make an investigation."

Bailey Turner, head of the Coalition of Concerned Black Citizens, issued a statement demanding that "Patrolman Timothy Spurlock be discharged immediately."

Goodin had said no action would be considered until the appeal is completed.

Mark Sachs, 22, and his wife, charged with assaulting a police officer, filed a warrant against Vice Squad Officer James Simon charging Simon assaulted him in a tavern July 20.

Police said the incident occurred July 15 during the arrest of a bartender and that the officer struck Sachs in the face after Sachs poked him in the chest several times and cursed him.

Sachs wife jumped on the officer's back and struck him, the police report said.

In the third incident, Daniel Tinsley, 23, who charged Ptl. Thomas C. Wood with assault, said the officer struck him July 27 in a Fairmount section bar.

Police said that Tinsley refused to leave the bar and police arrested him for disorderly conduct. Force was used when Tinsley struck the officer, police reported.

Restaurant Patron Is Taken Hostage

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP) — A 19-year-old patron at a restaurant in nearby Monroe was taken hostage Wednesday night by two men who robbed the place of $500, the sheriff's office said. Abducted was Scott Burkhardt of Hamilton, according to deputies, who said they did not know what kind of car the holdup men made their getaway in or which direction they headed.

Sneek-A-Peek

By Pickaway County Library Staff

Books for young adults encompass a wide range. Some are fairly easy to read, written for the junior high level. Others are really adult in story content and reading level. In fact, many adults enjoy browsing in the young adult section of the library. Here are notes on some recent additions in this department.

Written for young adults, "You Bet Your Boots I Can" will be enjoyed by oldersters for its nostalgic writing. Its heroine is fourteen, the year is 1902. She wears fascinators, dresses that are shirred at the waist, and ruffles on her corset cover. She lives in Nebraska, and, while she suspects that she is something of a snob, she makes horse sense judgments. Her comments on frontier society and its pretentious ambitions are both comic and tart. Jessie Hosford wrote this book. One suspects that it is based on her own family history.

"Young and Female" is a refreshing reminder of the early struggles of women's lib. It contains personal accounts, most from autobiographies, of the turning points in the lives of eight American women. They are not bra-burning, insistent voices. Instead, they show tentative reaching for feminine identity. There are chapters about Shirley MacLane, Shirley Chisholm, Dorothy Day, Emily Hahn, Margaret Sanger, Althea Gibson, Edna Ferber, and Margaret Burke White. Pat Ross edited the book.

There is a trend toward realism in young people's books today. "Stranger on the Road" is a typical example. Di, fifteen and not quite grown up, lived alone with her divorced mother. But when she was presented with a new daddy, she split. With a knapsack and twenty dollars, she walked, hitchhiked, worked and rode buses across the country. Along the way, she learned a lot about herself. Most important of all was the fact that she became acquainted with her true self. Armed with this wide information, she returned home, prepared to accept the situations which life handed to her. Caroline Crane is the author.

Science fiction is very popular with young adults. "Dimension A" by L.P. Davis is a zinger which will delight science fiction fans. Its background is English, but not unfamiliar. It explores the theory of simultaneous worlds.

"Gentle Ben" is Walt Morey's most famous book. In "Scrub Dog of Alaska" he has another winner. Here is a dog story to touch the hearts of people who have no need for thoroughbreds. Scrub is a memorable character and will be cherished along with Ben the bear and Gloomy Gus.

Report 29 Cases Of Meningitis

CINCINNATI (AP) — Health officials report 29 cases of aseptic meningitis, described as a mild infection, in the Cincinnati area since Aug. 1.

Dr. Calvin Linnemann of the University of Cincinnati Virology Laboratory, said hospitalization was standard procedure for children under three. While there was not cure, the children are kept in case it becomes serious. Children normally overcome the disease in six to 10 days, he said.

Symptoms include headache, vomiting, fever and stiff neck.

Ohio Democratic Convention Date Set

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — If Presidential candidate George McGovern can be there that day, the Ohio Democratic Party will hold its state convention in Cleveland Sept. 23. Chairman William Lavelle announced Tuesday.

Final plans also hinge on the state executive committee's approval of a resolution changing the location from Columbus to Cleveland, Lavelle said.

BY ALEXANDER HIGGINS
Associated Press Writer

NEWTON, Mass. (AP) — A four-year-old fight by a group of Massachusetts mothers aimed at improving the quality of the television programs their children watch has forced removal of prayers from orange juice commercials and cancellation of certain vitamin pill advertising.

There have been other victories for the mothers, who call themselves Action for Children's Television—ACT—but they say their children still see too many commercials and programs to which they should not be subjected.

"It's time for America to realize children are special in the TV they watch," Peggy Charren, ACT chairman, said in an interview.

And to that end the group is continuing its campaign for an end to commercials on children's programs and an improvement in network programming.

ACT, a privately funded pressure group, has been to bat several times before federal agencies. Last fall they told the FTC—and Federal Communications Commission—FCC—that one commercial used during the children's program "Romper Room" on one television station said, in part:

"God is great. God is good. let us thank him for our food: and now you may drink your Tropicana Orange Juice from the Pleasant Hill Dairy."

The commercial is no longer shown, and the producers of the popular nationwide program have made several format changes.

Another action ACT had sought was taken July 18 when it was announced that three major drug companies—Miles Laboratories, Bristol-Myers and Hoffman-LaRoche—had agreed to withdraw vitamin pill ads from children's programs by Oct. 1.

At FTC hearings last year, ACT had said that iron-fortified vitamin pills were being sold on TV "just like candy," despite medical warnings that too much iron can lead to coma and death.

Mrs. Charren called the actions of the drug companies "socially responsible." But she and other mothers, who began their drive on a shoestring budget in a living room, are far from satisfied with the format of children's television programs.

They have urged the FTC and FCC to end all advertising on these programs on the grounds the commercials are unfair and misleading.

They say they are concerned about the effect commercials have on children as well as the effect commercials have on the programs themselves.

Mrs. Charren says the Association of National Advertisers was wrong when it declared that advertising directed "to children for products and services which are used and consumed by children is appropriate in a society and economy such as ours."

ACT has concluded that the only "reason there is violence on children's television is because it sells. The Neilson ratings show that action attracts large audiences."

As a result they don't expect any revolutionary changes in network programming until federal agencies step in and take action.

For that reason, Mrs. Charren said, ACT has petitioned the FCC to declare children's television a public service and has asked the agency to set aside a minimum number of hours per week during which networks must produce programs for children. They ask that no commercials be carried.

Some forward steps have been taken, Mrs. Charren said. She said some local stations, including the Post-Newsweek stations in Washington and Florida, now cluster their ads at the beginning and end of children's shows. And the National Association of Broadcasters has instituted new rules which will reduce from 16 to 12 the number of minutes per hour allowable for advertising during programs aimed at children.

As for the new fall lineup of children's program to be offered by networks, ACT says it offers little different from years past. Of the 15 hours of network programming on Saturday mornings this fall, 80 per cent will be animated.

"There are almost no live people on children's TV this fall," Mrs. Charren said. "Besides that, almost every program is based on another."

ACT's founders say the quality of children's programming will change only if parents keep pushing for change. They say they'd like "to get parents to pay as much attention to the TV set as they do to the stove." And, of course, they'd like more volunteers for their cause, one which now has 1,000 members. They also are seeking more money to feed their efforts.

Two $5,000 grants from the Ford Foundation helped ACT conduct seminars in 1970 and 1972. All operations have been greatly expanded since receipt last year of a $164,500 grant from the Markoe Foundation.

Cincinnati Police In Uproar Over Arrests For Assault

CINCINNATI (AP) — A police furor has arisen over the arrests of three Cincinnati policemen charged with assault following arrests in which force was used.

One officer has been convicted of assault and has filed an appeal.

Officer Timothy Spurlock was convicted by Police Court Judge Clarence Denning Tuesday, but no penalty or court costs were assessed.

He was accused of assaulting Weymond Bryant, 17, while breaking up a sidewalk dice game July 7. Bryant said the officer kicked him. The officer said the youth fell trying to get away, then struck the officer. Bryant was charged with resisting arrest.

"We feel that Judge Denning's ruling was unfortunate and unfair," said Specialist James Frohn, president of the Hamilton County Fraternal Order of Police.

Cincinnati Police Chief Carl Gooden said Wednesday night that the judge's ruling will reduce the ability of police to enforce the law professionally.

"The court decision doesn't represent the law of the land in Cincinnati," he said, "especially when the U.S. Supreme Court decisions clearly indicate that the police officer has the right to stop an individual and make an investigation."

Bailey Turner, head of the Coalition of Concerned Black Citizens, issued a statement demanding that "Patrolman Timothy Spurlock be discharged immediately."

Gooden had said no action would be considered until the appeal is completed.

Mark Sachs, 22, and his wife, charged with assaulting a police officer filed a warrant against Vice Squad Officer James Simon charging Simon assaulted him in a tavern July 20.

Police said the incident occurred July 15 during the arrest of a bartender and that the officer struck Sachs in the face after Sachs poked him in the chest several times and cursed him.

Sachs wife jumped on the officer's back and struck him, the police report said.

In the third incident, Daniel Tinsley, 23, who charged Ptl. Thomas C. Wood with assault, said the officer struck him July 27 in a Fairmount section bar.

Police said that Tinsley refused to leave the bar and police arrested him for disorderly conduct. Force was used when Tinsley struck the officer, police reported.

Restaurant Patron Is Taken Hostage

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP) — A 19-year-old patron at a restaurant in nearby Monroe was taken hostage Wednesday night by two men who robbed the place of $500, the sheriff's office said.

Abducted was Scott Burkhardt of Hamilton, according to deputies, who said they did not know what kind of car the holdup men made their getaway in or which direction they headed.

Air Charter Racket Under Fire

NEW YORK (AP) — Karen Hoarty, back in the United States $100 poorer and a lot wiser about the pitfalls of charter deals, said Wednesday night "it would have been less expensive and far easier to have used a regular commercial flight."

The 23-year-old Toledo, Ohio, psychologist five months ago bought what seemed to be a bargain — a roundtrip ticket from New York to London for $200 — only to learn later there was no return trip in the deal.

"I was very fortunate," she said on her arrival at Kennedy Airport Wednesday night. "I only lost $100, but I know people a lot worse off — whole families stranded in Europe."

Miss Hoarty was able to borrow $100 for a return ticket and was lucky enough to be able to book passage on a legitimate charter flight.

She said she would file a complaint with the New York City Department of Consumer Affairs, but was not too optimistic about getting her $100 back.

Her story is typical of the experiences of thousands of Americans in what the New York State Consumer Frauds and Protection Bureau has called "one of the worst summers for charter failures."

Miss Hoarty, who starts work in the fall at the Toledo Mental Health Center, booked her flight through a New York travel agency which, for $200, gave her a ticket to London and a voucher for the return trip.

While preparing to leave from Kennedy for London on March 17, she said, she was given a card to sign. "The card said: 'I am a member of the New York Academic Society, and I hereby swear I have been a member six months.'"

In order to qualify for some charter flights, passengers must be members of the organization booking the flight.

Having never heard of the New York Academic Society, Miss Hoarty objected to signing the card.

"I was told the CAB was being very persnickity, and they said if you don't sign you can't fly," she said. "By that time, they put your baggage on the plane, you're ready to go, so you sign."

The New York travel agency had told Miss Hoarty that two weeks before she wanted to return to the U.S. she was to send her voucher to their London branch, which operated under a different name.

She did so, but heard nothing. After several days, she went to the London agency personally.

There she was told by an executive the New York agency was out of business and denied it had any connection with the firm. She asked for her voucher back, but the man claimed he could not find it, she said.

A second trip to the London agency with an acquaintance was equally unsuccessful.

The British Overseas Airways flight had been chartered by the National Association of Students Abroad, an organization to which Miss Hoarty belongs. She said she had complained to the American Embassy in London and the British Board of Trade.

Hot, Humid Air Flows From Gulf

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A sultry, tropical air system from the Gulf to the Great Lakes continued today to give the central part of the nation hot, muggy weather.

Thunderstorms encircled the region from the upper Ohio Valley around the northern Great Lakes and across the mountains in the West to the southern Plains.

In the Pacific northwest, three persons were killed and three were missing when a storm unexpectedly lashed the southern Oregon and northern California coasts.

In Minnesota, a tornado touched down in the northeast part of the state, injuring one person, destroying a barn and leveling trees. Nearly three inches of rain fell at Duluth, Minn., with water damage to homes and property.

For the rest of the country, conditions were dry and seasonable.

Temperatures across the nation at dawn ranged from 49 at Flagstaff, Ariz., to 85 at Alice, Texas.

Solar System Study To Cost $25,000

Air Charter Racket Under Fire

NEW YORK (AP) — Karen Hoarty, back in the United States $100 poorer and a lot wiser about the pitfalls of charter deals, said Wednesday night "it would have been less expensive and far easier to have used a regular commercial flight."

The 23-year-old Toledo, Ohio, psychologist five months ago bought what seemed to be a bargain — a roundtrip ticket from New York to London for $200 — only to learn later there was no return trip in the deal.

"I was very fortunate," she said on her arrival at Kennedy Airport Wednesday night. "I only lost $100, but I know people a lot worse off — whole families stranded in Europe."

Miss Hoarty was able to borrow $100 for a return ticket and was lucky enough to be able to book passage on a legitimate charter flight.

She said she would file a complaint with the New York City Department of Consumer Affairs, but was not too optimistic about getting her $100 back.

Her story is typical of the experiences of thousands of Americans in what the New York State Consumer Frauds and Protection Bureau has called "one of the worst summers for charter failures."

Miss Hoarty, who starts work in the fall at the Toledo Mental Health Center, booked her flight through a New York travel agency which, for $200, gave her a ticket to London and a voucher for the return trip.

While preparing to leave from Kennedy for London on March 17, she said, she was given a card to sign. "The card said: 'I am a member of the New York Academic Society, and I hereby swear I have been a member six months.'"

In order to qualify for some charter flights, passengers must be members of the organization booking the flight.

Having never heard of the New York Academic Society, Miss Hoarty objected to signing the card.

"I was told the CAB was being very persnickity, and they said if you don't sign you can't fly," she said. "By that time, they put your baggage on the plane, you're ready to go, so you sign."

The New York travel agency had told Miss Hoarty that two weeks before she wanted to return to the U.S. she was to send her voucher to their London branch, which operated under a different name.

She did so, but heard nothing. After several days, she went to the London agency personally.

There she was told by an executive the New York agency was out of business and denied it had any connection with the firm. She asked for her voucher back, but the man claimed he could not find it, she said.

A second trip to the London

agency with an acquaintance was equally unsuccessful.

The British Overseas Airways flight had been chartered by the National Association of Students Abroad, an organization to which Miss Hoarty belongs.

She said she had complained to the American Embassy in London and the British Board of Trade.

Execution Is Ordered In Kentucky

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The Kentucky Court of Appeals has ordered the execution of an inmate of the State Penitentiary at Eddyville, despite a recent Supreme Court ruling declaring the death penalty unconstitutional.

Warden Henry Cowan said Wednesday he received word from the appellate court Aug. 3 calling for the execution of Robert Call, 24, of Bullitt County on Sept. 1.

The Court of Appeals order came slightly more than a month after the U.S. Supreme Court ruled 5-4 that the death penalty as applied in some cases is unconstitutional.

Cowan told the Associated Press he has notified Gov. Wendell Ford and Corrections Commissioner Charles Holmes of the execution order and has asked them for "direction."

The governor, contacted at home, said he believes the Court of Appeals will reconsider its decision to order Call's execution.

Ford said that while he has the authority to pardon or to suspend a prisoner's sentence, he plans to wait and see what the appellate court decides before acting.

The executive date is two weeks away.

There are now 16 prisoners on Death Row in Kentucky. Eight more were sentenced to die but have litigation pending, Cowan said.

Commissioner Holmes was not available for comment Thursday night.

Drug Abuse Program Expands

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Director Kenneth Gaver of the Ohio Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation said Wednesday the state's drug abuse treatment program has progressed in the past year from a small program of methadone treatment centers to a widespread community operation.

Gaver described the state's expanded drug abuse prevention programs at the Drug Studies Institute being held this week at Ohio State University.

"A year ago, Ohio had only a fragmentary treatment and 'Now we have a wide variety of programs in which spending will increase from approximately $4 million to more than $11 million."

"Virtually all programs are being turned over to community-based operations which will concentrate on treatment, detoxification, prevention, education and rehabilitation services."

Gaver explained that the six Bureau of Drug Abuse clinics, formerly operated by the state, have been turned over to various communities, and four new methadone maintenance clinics are to be established.

He said inpatient drug treatment units have also been established at 10 state hospitals.

Forty-five per cent of Alberta's population is of British ancestry.

Senior Citizens Becoming Political Power Bloc

By DEE WEDEMEYER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — America's 20 million senior citizens are rallying to their own cause and fast becoming one of the most organized groups in the nation.

The National Council of Senior Citizens, an AFL-CIO backed organization, reports it has three million members in more than 3,000 affiliated clubs. Another 3.8 million are members on the National Retired Teachers Association and the American Association of Retired Persons, both predominantly white-collar groups.

Both the National Council and the AARP have doubled their membership in the past five years and the AARP said that each week 2,000 more people are paying the $2 membership fee to join.

Many state organizations also report record growth.

William Hutton, executive director of the 11-year-old National Council, said the recent trend toward organizing is due to the pressing needs of the steadily increasing numbers of retirees, who are living longer thanks to medical science but on fixed incomes, during a time of inflation.

At the same time, he said, there is a growing realization that though people over 65 represent only 9.8 per cent of the nation's population, they are 16 per cent of those who vote and they have demonstrated that when aroused, they can vote significantly as a block, despite previous party affiliations.

"It's latent power," said Hutton. "We have a slogan. It's senior power. It's just to remind people that there are 20 million people over 65 and another 20 million 55 to 65. That's 40 million people in retirement or considering retirement."

The senior citizens make their presence felt primarily through letter writing, telephone calls and telegrams but more and more, where possible, have taken to demonstrating, visiting congressmen and legislators, even grading politicians.

In Ohio, legislators were besieged by a "pray-in" of senior citizens, the day a bill to make sprinklers in nursing homes mandatory passed the Statehouse.

Matthew DeMore, a 69-year-old retired machinist union officer from Silver Spring, Md., and head of the Concerned Seniors for Better Government, said the AFL-CIO backed organization plans to go into 17 to 18 election campaigns. He said the Concerned Seniors method includes interviewing candidates who have not held office before about their stands on various issues and asking for signed statements.

The legislation most groups say they are after includes property tax exemptions that would make it easier for a person with a reduced income to keep their homes; food programs, especially opening up school cafeterias to their elderly; transportation, health care, federally assisted public housing and employment opportunities.

In California the League of Senior Citizens, has its 18,000 members working for support of a bill which would provide for a $4,600 minimum income per elderly couple.

Already there are reduced fares on buses in at least 50 cities and in some places expanded bus services just for the elderly. In St. Louis the Older Adult Community Action program sponsors a bus service that picks up senior citizens and takes them to stores, clinics, hospitals, movies or just visiting.

The Dallas, Tex., transportation system has agreed to an experimental Dial-A-Bus system for a big apartment block occupied by the elderly. Those needing transportation need only telephone and an inward bound bus will be diverted to their front door. New York City has inaugurated a reduced fare taxi service for senior citizens and the handicapped which can get fares as low as 60 cents each for three passengers leaving the same place for the same destination.

So far, some 35 states have adopted some form of property tax exemption for senior citizens and a few, like Wisconsin, have granted income tax credits for the elderly who rent rather than own their homes.

There are a variety of other forms of legislation including

Dear Abby: Stay Away From The Winger

By Abigail Van Buren
DEAR ABBY: Please give me your opinion on this subject as it seems to be "law" with the women in McLean, Texas.

I am new in this town and the townspeople appear to be feeling me out. At work the other day some women asked me what I sleep in, and I said, "Nothing." It's true. Well, I was told I was no lady!

Abby, I enjoy sleeping in the nude. In fact, I also enjoy doing my housework in the nude, (privately, and with all the shades drawn, of course) and what is more I like to cook in the nude. I see nothing wrong with it, but these Texas women are ready to run me out of town on a rail.

I live alone, so why can't I do as I please? Are you with me?

NEW IN TOWN
DEAR NEW: I'm with you. But do put an apron on when you're frying bacon. And watch the winger.

DEAR ABBY: Ho-whom. I just read the following sentence in one of your columns: "You will always be your mother's daughter regardless of whom your father's wife is."

Abby, you could not possibly have committed so horrendous a grammatical crime, so it must have been your secretary, a proofreader or printer. Regardless of "whom" it is, Kall the Kulpri on the Karpet and Kastigate him, her or it Kategorically.

TONY THE STICKLER IN CANOGA PARK, CAL.
DEAR TONY: I'll take my lumps when I goof, but this time I'm not guilty. The word was correctly "who" in the copies sent to all the newspapers carrying my column. For some reason, ONE newspaper (with a circulation of almost a million) changed my "who" to "whom." (Oh, would that they had changed my "whom" to "who" when recently I erroneously wrote, "Whom shall I say is calling?")

DEAR ABBY: My husband has been an invalid for 10 years. I have been willing to take him on trips for vacations twice a year, but he refuses to go because he would have to go in a wheelchair, and this he refuses to do.

Do you think I should give up all future vacations which include travel? I have opportunities to go with tour groups through my husband's business associations. No hanky panky. Just a change of scenery, which I would so love. My husband would have good loving care from our children, and they think I should go. I'd never be gone for more than 10 days. Should I go or not?

CABIN FEVER IN ILLINOIS
DEAR FEVER: How does your husband feel about it? If he wants you to go, then go. If he doesn't, (although it would

Execution Is Ordered In Kentucky

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The Kentucky Court of Appeals has ordered the execution of an inmate of the State Penitentiary at Eddyville, despite a recent Supreme Court ruling declaring the death penalty unconstitutional.

Warden Henry Cowan said Wednesday he received word from the appellate court Aug. 3 calling for the execution of Robert Call, 24, of Bullitt County on Sept. 1.

The Court of Appeals order came slightly more than a month after the U.S. Supreme Court ruled 5-4 that the death penalty as applied in some cases is unconstitutional.

Cowan told the Associated Press he has notified Gov. Wendell Ford and Corrections Commissioner Charles Holmes of the execution order and has asked them for "direction."

The governor, contacted at home, said he believes the Court of Appeals will reconsider its decision to order Call's execution.

Ford said that while he has the authority to pardon or to suspend a prisoner's sentence, he plans to wait and see what the appellate court decides before acting.

The execution date is two weeks away.

There are now 16 prisoners on Death Row in Kentucky. Eight more were sentenced to die but have litigation pending, Cowan said.

The last prisoner executed at Kentucky's maximum security facility was Kelly Moss in 1962.

Call has been on death row since April 22, 1971, on a charge of willful murder.

Commissioner Holmes was not available for comment Thursday night.

Drug Abuse Program Expands

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Director Kenneth Gaver of the Ohio Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation said Wednesday the state's drug abuse treatment program has progressed in the past year from a small program of methadone treatment centers to a widespread community operation.

Gaver described the state's expanded drug abuse prevention programs at the Drug Studies Institute being held this week at Ohio State University.

"A year ago, Ohio had only a fragmentary treatment and 'Now we have a wide variety of programs in which spending will increase from approximately $4 million to more than $11 million."

"Virtually all programs are being turned over to community-based operations which will concentrate on treatment, detoxification, prevention, education and rehabilitation services."

Gaver explained that the six Bureau of Drug Abuse clinics, formerly operated by the state, have been turned over to various communities, and four new methadone maintenance clinics are to be established.

He said inpatient drug treatment units have also been established at 10 state hospitals.

Forty-five per cent of Alberta's population is of British ancestry.

Senior Citizens Becoming Political Power Bloc

By DEE WEDEMEYER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — America's 20 million senior citizens are rallying to their own cause and fast becoming one of the most organized groups in the nation.

The National Council of Senior Citizens, an AFL-CIO backed organization, reports it has three million members in more than 3,000 affiliated clubs. Another 3.8 million are members on the National Retired Teachers Association and the American Association of Retired Persons, both predominantly white-collar groups.

Both the National Council and the AARP have doubled their membership in the past five years and the AARP said that each week 2,000 more people are paying the $2 membership fee to join.

Many state organizations also report record growth.

William Hutton, executive director of the 11-year-old National Council, said the recent trend toward organizing is due to the pressing needs of the steadily increasing numbers of retirees, who are living longer thanks to medical science but on fixed incomes, during a time of inflation.

At the same time, he said, there is a growing realization that though people over 65 represent only 9.8 per cent of the nation's population, they are 16 per cent of those who vote and they have demonstrated that when aroused they can vote significantly as a block, despite previous party affiliations.

"It's latent power," said Hutton. "We have a slogan. It's senior power. It's just to remind people that there are 20 million people over 65 and another 20 million 55 to 65. That's 40 million people in retirement or considering retirement."

The senior citizens make their presence felt primarily through letter writing, telephone calls and telegrams but more and more, where possible, have taken to demonstrating, visiting congressmen and legislators, even grading politicians.

In Ohio, legislators were besieged by a "pray-in" of senior citizens, the day a bill to make sprinklers in nursing homes mandatory passed the Statehouse.

Matthew DeMore, a 69-year-old retired machinist union officer from Silver Spring, Md., and head of the Concerned Seniors for Better Government, said the AFL-CIO backed organization plans to go into 17 to 18 election campaigns. He said the Concerned Seniors method includes interviewing candidates who have not held office before about their stands on various issues and asking for signed statements.

The legislation most groups say they are after includes property tax exemptions that would make it easier for a person with a reduced income to keep their homes; food programs, especially opening up school cafeterias to their elderly; transportation, health care, federally assisted public housing and employment opportunities.

In California the League of Senior Citizens, has its 18,000 members working for support of a bill which would provide for a $4,600 minimum income per elderly couple.

Already there are reduced fares on buses in at least 50 cities and in some places expanded bus services just for the elderly. In St. Louis the Older Adult Community Action program sponsors a bus service that picks up senior citizens and takes them to stores, clinics, hospitals, movies or just visiting.

The Dallas, Tex., transportation system has agreed to an experimental Dial-A-Bus system for a big apartment block occupied by the elderly. Those needing transportation need only telephone and an inward bound bus will be diverted to their front door. New York City has inaugurated a reduced fare taxi service for senior citizens and the handicapped which can get fares as low as 60 cents each for three passengers leaving the same place for the same destination.

So far, some 35 states have adopted some form of property tax exemption for senior citizens and a few, like Wisconsin, have granted income tax credits for the elderly who rent rather than own their homes.

There are a variety of other forms of legislation including

Dear Abby: Stay Away From The Wringer

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Please give me your opinion on this subject as it seems to be "law" with the women in McLean, Texas.

I am new in this town and the townspeople appear to be feeling me out. At work the other day some women asked me what I sleep in, and I said, "Nothing." It's true. Well, I was told I was no lady!

Abby, I enjoy sleeping in the nude. In fact, I also enjoy doing my housework in the nude, (privately, and with all the shades drawn, of course) and what is more I like to cook in the nude. I see nothing wrong with it, but these Texas women are ready to run me out of town on a rail.

I live alone, so why can't I do as I please? Are you with me?

NEW IN TOWN

DEAR NEW: I'm with you. But do put an apron on when you're trying bacon. And watch the wringer.

DEAR ABBY: Ho-whom. I just read the following sentence in one of your columns: "You will always be your mother's daughter regardless of whom your father's wife is."

Abby, you could not possibly have committed so horrendous a grammatical crime, so it must have been your secretary, a proofreader or printer. Regardless of "whom" it is. Kall the Kulpit on the Karpel and Kastigate him, her or it Katergorically.

TONY THE STICKLER IN CANOGA PARK, CAL.

DEAR TONY: I'll take my lumps when I goof, but this time I'm not guilty. The word was correctly "who" in the copies sent to all the newspapers carrying my column. For some reason, ONE newspaper (with a circulation of almost a million) changed my "who" to "whom." (Oh, would that they had changed my "whom" to "who" when recently I erroneously wrote, "Whom shall I say is calling?")

DEAR ABBY: My husband has been an invalid for 10 years. I have been willing to take him on trips for vacations twice a year, but he refuses to go because he would have to go in a wheelchair, and this he refuses to do.

Do you think I should give up all future vacations which include travel? I have opportunities to go with tour groups through my husband's business associations. No hanky panky. Just a change of scenery, which I would so love.

My husband would have good loving care from our children, and they think I should go. I'd never be gone for more than 10 days. Should I go or not?

CABIN FEVER IN ILLINOIS

DEAR FEVER: How does your husband feel about it? If he wants you to go, then go. If he doesn't, (although it would

Cincinnati Reds Stomp Phillies; Win Clash, 8-2

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—With just a month and a half left in the 1972 season, time is running out for the Phillies Ken Reynolds.

The 25-year-old righthander, whose reputation for early-inning difficulties is well documented, was afflicted by his old nemesis again Wednesday night, leaving after retiring but one Cincinnati Red batter.

The Reds ended up winners by an 8-2 score, while Reynolds was tagged with his 10th straight loss of the season. He has not won a game since last season, when he won five and lost nine.

Pete Rose, Joe Morgan and Bob Tolan hit line singles for a run before Reynolds got John Bench on a short fly for the first out. But consecutive walks to Tony Perez and Denis Menke made it 2-0 and Reynolds left for the showers.

"It was our worst game," moaned Paul Owens, the Phils' general manager-manager afterward. "At least I can't remember anything this bad."

Owens lament was directed more at his offensive performers than towards Reynolds. For Philadelphia batters failed to cash in on opportunities to tie the game after the Reds got off to a 3-0 lead in the opening inning.

For one thing, the last-place Phils permitted Reds' pitcher Jim McGlothlin to get away with hurling sub-par pitches.

"We've got to beat him when he throws like that," Owens said. "If we can't beat that kind of pitching we can't expect to beat Fergie Jenkins and those guys."

The Phils loaded the bases in the second when Willie Montanez singled, Greg Luzinski walked and Deron Johnson singled. But they managed but two runs. Montanez scored as Don Money grounded out and Luzinski crossed the plate on a passed ball.

With the score 3-2 in the fourth, the Phils used a double by Luzinski and Johnsons single to put runners at the corners with none out. They failed to score, however, as Money struck out. John Bateman flied to short left and pinch-hitter Oscar Gamble went down swinging.

"That was the game," said Owens. "Money had the green light on the 3-0 pitch but took one right down the pike...then struck out chasing two low pitches. All we needed was contact and it would have been a new ball game."

Stoutsville, DuPont Lose In TV Tourney

Londonderry and Madison were the big winners of the two Major League tilts played Wednesday evening at the Teays Valley Tournament.

Londonderry defeated Stoutsville 7-1 in the first game of the evening.

Rainy was the winning pitcher, allowing one-hit and one-run in the first three innings when Lawson came on to finish, striking out nine batters in the final three innings.

Lawson slugged a homerun and a single for the winners while Rainy and Baxter each rapped a pair of hits.

MARSHALL was tossing off the mound for Stoutsville giving up seven hits and six runs.

Anderson was the only hitter for the Stoutsville nine.

Madison scored two runs in the top of the 10th inning to upset Pickaway DuPont 5-3.

Chuck Cave went all 10 innings for DuPont while Joe Stevens was the winning pitcher, hurling the last six innings.

The game was tied 3-3 at the end of six innings and remained that way until Hann stepped up to the plate in the top of the tenth to bat in a couple runs with a bases loaded single.

Pickaway DuPont loaded the bases in the bottom of the tenth but were unable to score.

Thomas Still Not With Chargers

IRVINE, Calif. (AP) — It has been 17 days since the San Diego Chargers obtained running back Duane Thomas from the Dallas Cowboys, and the talented-but-tactiturn athlete has yet to report to training camp.

If the Chargers even know where he is, they aren't saying. Nor are they offering predictions on when or if he'll show up.

San Diego gave up two promising second-year men, receiver Billy Parks and running back Mike Montgomery, to get Thomas and if he never reports it won't void the trade which is final.

Charger head coach Harland Sware conceded when he made the deal that it was "a gamble, a big gamble." But the 41-year-old coach thought it was worth taking a chance because he considers Thomas the best running back since Jim Brown.

Thomas and Sware have had one meeting since the July 31 trade. The athlete showed up here Aug. 3 and talked privately with his new coach but evaded reporters.

Thomas hasn't been heard from since Aug. 4, when three federal sky marshals had to escort him off a Dallas-bound jet in Los Angeles when he refused to turn over his tape recorder. He took a later flight.

His Angels Appear

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Navy's Blue Angels precision flight team will appear Sept. 16-17 at the Ohio Aerospace Exposition at Cincinnati's Lunken Airport. An Army parachute team also will perform and an Apollo lunar landing craft will be on display.

Pirates Edge Los Angeles Dodgers, 3-2

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

For 26 innings, the Los Angeles Dodgers were giving people the willies.

They got some of their own medicine back Wednesday night.

Willie Stargell erased earlier damage done by Los Angeles' Willie Davis with a two-run homer in the ninth inning to give the Pittsburgh Pirates a dramatic 3-2 victory.

Davis, who had won two previous games with homers, put the Dodgers into a 2-0 lead with a two-run double in the second inning. It lasted until the final frame, when the Pirates scored three times to beat Don Sutton.

Stargell's wallop followed a run-scoring single by Al Oliver and marked the 18th time this season that the Pirates have won games in the ninth inning. The National League's East leaders, who boosted their lead to 10 games over the New York Mets, have also come from behind to win 33 times this year. In the other National League games, the Cincinnati Reds ripped the Philadelphia Phillies 8-2; the Houston Astros trimmed the Montreal Expos 5-0; the San Francisco Giants smashed the Chicago Cubs 14-9; the Atlanta Braves topped the New York Mets 3-1 and the St. Louis Cardinals beat the San Diego Padres 6-4.

Sutton was pitching a four-hitter for Los Angeles through eight innings before Pittsburgh rallied in the ninth. Dave Cash led off with a double, took third on a balk by Sutton and scored on Oliver's single. Stargell then produced.

Tony Perez knocked in four runs, two with a homer, to pace a 13-hit attack that powered Cincinnati past hapless Philadelphia. The loser was Ken Reynolds, who dropped his 10th game without a victory this year.

"I think he lost his com-

Bob Watson and John Edwards each drove in two runs and Don Wilson spun a five-hitter, leading Houston over Montreal. The Astros took the lead with two runs in the fourth on a single by Watson and Edwards' sacrifice fly.

Houston scored three more times in the sixth, helped by three Montreal errors. Watson drove in one run with a squeeze bunt, his third hit of the game. Edwards drove in another with a base hit and Doug Rader singled home the final run of the inning.

San Francisco crushed Chicago with a 20-hit offense, including four by Ken Henderson and three by Tito Fuentes and Dave Rader. Henderson drove in five runs with his hits, one of them a three-run homer, and Fuentes knocked in four.

The Cubs had 15 hits, including a homer by Jose Cardenal in the seventh when they scored five runs.

Dusty Baker singled home the tilt-breaking run in a two-run sixth inning and Hank Aaron blasted the 66th home run of his career to help Atlanta defeat New York. The home run put Aaron an even 50 in back of Babe Ruth's career record 714.

Luis Melendez hit a two-run homer in the second inning and Ted Sizemore singled home what proved to be the winning run in the sixth that gave Bob Gibson and St. Louis a triumph over San Diego.

Nate Colbert belted his 33rd home run—tops in the majors this year—for the losers.

Woods Wins 21st; Brewers Lose

By BRUCE LOWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer

"I'm not looking at records," says Chicago's amazing Wilbur Wood. "I'm still a relief pitcher at heart, pitching one batter, rather than one game, at a time."

That's the approach to the game of baseball—or rather the artistry of pitching—by the 30-year-old knuckleballer, a refugee from the bullpen, the winningest hurler in the major leagues this season.

Wednesday's performance was hardly one of his more successful efforts of the year. He was clipped for 10 hits and five runs by Milwaukee and departed after only 6 1/3 innings.

for Chicago Manager Chuck Tanner, who said: "I got no complaints. Woody won the game."

The White Sox's 8-6 triumph over the Brewers, coupled with Oakland's 4-3 victory over Baltimore Wednesday night, enabled the White Sox to remain within a game of the front-running A's in the American League's tight West Division race.

Elsewhere in the American League, Kansas City defeated the New York Yankees 3-2, California edged Cleveland 2-1 and Texas topped Boston 9-8 in 10 innings. Minnesota's game at Detroit was rained out.

"My delivery was too high right from the first inning," said Wood, who has lost 11 games this year. "The ball was moving good, but with a knuckler, if it's too high, it loses its effectiveness."

The White Sox gave him a 6-0 lead to work with. In the second inning, Luis Alvarado hit a three-run inside-the-park home run and, in the third, Rick Reichardt drilled a two-run triple, then scored on Carlos May's double.

But it was a pair of runs in the sixth—obtained without benefit of a hit—that provided the winning margin. They came on three walks and a pair of grounders.

Mike Epstein's eighth-inning, tie-breaking home run, Oakland's third solo shot of the game, downed the Orioles. Bert Campaneris and Angel Mangual hit the others.

The loss dropped the Orioles within a game of second-place Detroit in the East but the Yankees blew another chance to gain ground, remaining two games off the pace. The Royals beat them on John Mayberry's tie-breaking single in the eighth.

Clyde Wright won his 14th game for the Angels, turning back Cleveland on four hits. Vada Pinson scored both California runs, the latter on Ken McMullen's tie-breaking single in the ninth.

And Tom Grieve broke Boston's back with a two-out homer in the bottom of the 10th inning for the Rangers. Carl Yastrzemski had a solo homer and Reggie Smith unloaded a grand-slammer for the Red Sox.

Charley Johnson Signs Up For Stint With Broncos

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Veteran quarterback Charley Johnson starts a new career with the Denver Broncos in the National Football League today.

"We are delighted to have Charley in a Bronco uniform," said Denver Coach John Ralston Wednesday after the Houston Oilers traded the 33-year-old Johnson to the Broncos for a high, undisclosed 1973 draft choice.

"His experience will be invaluable to our team," Ralston added.

In another development involving a veteran quarterback, Coach Tommy Prothro of the Los Angeles Rams said Roman Gabriel would start against Oakland Saturday night.

Denver is the third NFL team for Johnson, starting his 12th season in the league. Johnson starred at New Mexico State before starting his pro career with the St. Louis Cardinals in 1961.

He was traded to Houston after the 1969 season in a deal that sent quarterback Pete Beathard and cornerback Miller Farr to the Cardinals. With the Oilers he was hampered by injuries. He played most of the 1970 season with a special hardness for a broken left collar bone.

He started only three games with the Oilers last season, but completed 46 of 94 passes for three touchdowns. He is reported fully recovered from a knee operation during the off-season.

In another deal Wednesday the Cardinals acquired running

The Cleveland Browns have made a lineup change, but it won't affect their fortunes on the football field.

The National Football League club announced Wednesday that singer Sarah Vaughn has replaced Ella Fitzgerald in the entertainment half of the music-football doubleheader scheduled for Aug. 26 at Cleveland Stadium.

WASHINGTON (AP) — For five weeks, 14-year-old Nancy Miller of Elkhart, Ind., began her day at 6 a.m. to collect money for the U.S. Olympic team. For her efforts, she will see her heroes in action.

Nancy earned the trip to the 1972 Summer Olympics in Munich, Germany, by collecting the most money of 20,000 competitors ages 10 to 16 in a national contest.

CHICAGO (AP) — In order to accommodate the new rule permitting freshmen to compete on varsity football and basketball teams, the Big Ten has approved a maximum of six "varsity reserve" football games during the 1972 season.

Commissioner Wayne Duke said the games will be scheduled at the discretion of each school. He said the only restriction would be that no more than three road games could be played.

Youth, Experience Mixed On U.S. Olympic Squad

By DAN BERGER

Associated Press Sports Writer
MUNICH, Germany (AP) — Bob Seagren, who won't be able to use the pole with which he vaulted to a world record, and shot putter Brian Oldfield, who smokes to relieve tension, underscore a mixture of youth and experience for the United States in the Olympic field events.

Seagren's Cata-Pole, with which he set a world record of 18 feet, 5 inches a month ago, has been banned from the summer Games because it wasn't available to the rest of the world long enough. Olympic officials say Seagren would have an unfair advantage.

Even so, using the older poles made by the same firm, the former University of Southern California star had shared the world mark at 18'4" with Kiell Isaksson of Sweden. These two, along with Americans Steve Smith and Jan Johnson, Italy's Renato Dionisi and East Germany's Wolfgang Nordwing, figure to battle for the gold.

Oldfield, who says he smokes to relieve tension on the field, warms up by heaving the 16-pound iron ball over his head with both hands. He also admits he drinks when the day is done.

The other two U.S. shot putters are George Woods and Al Feuerbach. World record holder Randy Matson failed to make the team.

Art Walker, the first of America's great international triple jumpers, joins teammates Dave Smith and John Craft to give this country its first top threesome ever at an Olympics. Smith's American mark of 56-0 and Craft's wind-aided 56-2 make them top threats for the gold.

Name Count Challenged

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Hamilton County Board of Election has decided to challenge Ohio Secretary of State Ted Brown's decision to count all names other than those from outside of Hamilton County on petitions circulated by anti-income tax groups seeking a referendum.

The board had ruled invalid 34 of 250 petitions because there was one or more names of an out-of-county resident on them. The anti-tax factions had submitted 1,900 petitions with approximately 35,000 names.

Daniel Ruehlmann, elections director, said Wednesday the board had three days to challenge Brown's verbal decision in Hamilton County Common Pleas Court.

The decision came on a complaint by Joseph Jordan, local chairman of the tax-repeal campaign Tuesday.

A total of 318,418 signatures were needed statewide to force a referendum on the Nov. 4 ballot, officials said.

Bengals Eye Pass Defense For Saturday

WILMINGTON, Ohio (AP) — The Cincinnati Bengals defense is drilling to control Miami Dolphin pass receivers Paul Warfield and Marlin Briscoe.

The two are favorites of Dolphin quarterback Bob Griese, and Bengals coaches re working on "team play" and the zone defense to stop the aerial attack.

"The Dolphins, after losing two games, would like to get into the win column," said Bengals coach Paul Brown. While Miami dropped its first two exhibition games, the Bengals are 1-1, beating Detroit 28-20 last weekend.

"With a guy like Griese in there we'll be tested to the fullest," said Brown.

Running back Essex Johnson probably will miss the Miami game because of a groin injury. Linebacker Ken Avery, with a pulled leg muscle, also was a doubtful starter.

The Bengals host the Dolphins Saturday night at Cincinnati Riverfront Stadium.

Cincinnati Reds Stomp Phillies; Win Clash, 8-2

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—With just a month and a half left in the 1972 season, time is running out for the Phillies Ken Reynolds.

The 25-year-old righthander, whose reputation for early-inning difficulties is well documented, was afflicted by his old nemesis again Wednesday night, leaving after retiring but one Cincinnati Red batter.

The Reds ended up winners by an 8-2 score, while Reynolds was tagged with his 19th straight loss of the season. He has not won a game since last season, when he won five and lost nine.

Pete Rose, Joe Morgan and Bob Tolan hit line singles for a run before Reynolds got John Bench on a short fly for the first out. But consecutive walks to Tony Perez and Denis Menke made it 2-0 and Reynolds left for the showers.

"It was our worst game," moaned Paul Owens, the Phillies' general manager-manager afterward. "At least I can't remember anything this bad."

Owens lament was directed more at his offensive performers than towards Reynolds. For Philadelphia batters failed to cash in on opportunities to tie the game after the Reds got off to a 3-0 lead in the opening inning.

For one thing, the last-place Phils permitted Reds' pitcher Jim McGlothlin to get away with hurling sub-par pitches.

"We've got to beat him when he throws like that," Owens said. "If we can't beat that kind of pitching we can't expect to beat Fergie Jenkins and those guys."

The Phils loaded the bases in the second when Willie Montanez singled. Greg Luzinski walked and Deron Johnson singled. But they managed but two runs. Montanez scored as Don Money grounded out and Luzinski crossed the plate on a passed ball.

With the score 3-2 in the fourth, the Phils used a double by Luzinski and Johnsons single to put runners at the corners with none out. They failed to score, however, as Money struck out. John Bateman fled to short left and pinch-hitter Oscar Gamble went down swinging.

"That was the game," said Owens. "Money had the green light on the 3-0 pitch but took one right down the pike...then struck out chasing two low pitches. All we needed was contact and it would have been a new ball game."

Stoutsville, DuPont Lose In TV Tourney

Londonderry and Madison were the big winners of the two Major League tilts played Wednesday evening at the Teays Valley Tournament.

Londonderry defeated Stoutsville 7-1 in the first game of the evening.

Rainy was the winning pitcher, allowing one-hit and one-run in the first three innings when Lawson came on to finish, striking out nine batters in the final three innings.

Lawson slugged a homerun and a single for the winners while Rainy and Baxter each rapped a pair of hits.

MARSHALL was tossing off the mound for Stoutsville giving up seven hits and six runs. Anderson was the only hitter for the Stoutsville nine.

Madison scored two runs in the top of the 10th inning to upset Pickaway DuPont 5-3.

Chuck Cave went all 10 innings for DuPont while Joe Stevens was the winning pitcher, hurling the last six innings.

The game was tied 3-3 at the end of six innings and remained that way until Hann stepped up to the plate in the top of the tenth to bat in a couple runs with a bases loaded single.

Pickaway DuPont loaded the bases in the bottom of the tenth but were unable to score.

Thomas Still Not With Chargers

IRVINE, Calif. (AP) — It has been 17 days since the San Diego Chargers obtained running back Duane Thomas from the Dallas Cowboys, and the talented-but-tactiturn athlete has yet to report to training camp.

If the Chargers even know where he is, they aren't saying. Nor are they offering predictions on when or if he'll show up.

San Diego gave up two promising second-year men, receiver Billy Parks and running back Mike Montgomery, to get Thomas and if he never reports it won't void the trade which is final.

Charger head Coach Harland Sware conceded when he made the deal that it was "a gamble, a big gamble." But the 41-year-old coach thought it was worth taking a chance because he considers Thomas the best running back since Jim Brown.

Thomas and Sware have had one meeting since the July 31 trade. The athlete showed up here Aug. 3 and talked privately with his new coach but evaded reporters.

Thomas hasn't been heard from since Aug. 4, when three federal jury marshals had to escort him off a Dallas-bound jet in Los Angeles when he refused to turn over his tape recorder. He took a later flight.

Blue Angels Appear

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Navy's Blue Angels precision flight team will appear Sept. 16-17 at the Ohio Aerospace Exposition at Cincinnati's Lunken Airport. An Army parachute team also will perform and an Apollo lunar landing craft will be on display.

Pirates Edge Los Angeles Dodgers, 3-2

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer
For 26 innings, the Los Angeles Dodgers were giving people the willies.

They got some of their own medicine back Wednesday night.

Willie Stargell erased earlier damage done by Los Angeles' Willie Davis with a two-run homer in the ninth inning to give the Pittsburgh Pirates a dramatic 3-2 victory.

Davis, who had won two previous games with homers, put the Dodgers into a 2-0 lead with a two-run double in the second inning. It lasted until the final frame, when the Pirates scored three times to beat Don Sutton.

Stargell's wallop followed a run-scoring single by Al Oliver and marked the 18th time this season that the Pirates have won games in the ninth inning.

The National League's East leaders, who boosted their lead to 10 games over the New York Mets, have also come from behind to win 33 times this year.

In the other National League games, the Cincinnati Reds ripped the Philadelphia Phillies 8-2; the Houston Astros trimmed the Montreal Expos 5-0; the San Francisco Giants smashed the Chicago Cubs 14-9; the Atlanta Braves topped the New York Mets 3-1 and the St. Louis Cardinals beat the San Diego Padres 6-4.

Sutton was pitching a four-hitter for Los Angeles through eight innings before Pittsburgh rallied in the ninth. Dave Cash led off with a double, took third on a balk by Sutton and scored on Oliver's single. Stargell then produced.

Tony Perez knocked in four runs, two with a homer, to pace a 13-hit attack that powered Cincinnati past hapless Philadelphia. The loser was Ken Reynolds, who dropped his 10th game without a victory this year.

"I think he lost his com-

Bob Watson and John Edwards each drove in two runs and Don Wilson spun a five-hitter, leading Houston over Montreal. The Astros took the lead with two runs in the fourth on a single by Watson and Edwards' sacrifice fly.

Houston scored three more times in the sixth, helped by three Montreal errors. Watson drove in one run with a squeeze bunt, his third hit of the game. Edwards drove in another with a base hit and Doug Rader singled home the final run of the inning.

San Francisco crushed Chicago with a 20-hit offense, including four by Ken Henderson and three by Tito Fuentes and Dave Rader. Henderson drove in five runs with his hits, one of them a three-run homer, and Fuentes knocked in four.

The Cubs had 15 hits, including a homer by Jose Cardenal in the seventh when they scored five runs.

Dusty Baker singled home the tilt-breaking run in a two-run sixth inning and Hank Aaron blasted the 664th home run of his career to help Atlanta defeat New York. The home run put Aaron an even 50 in back of Babe Ruth's career record 714.

Luis Melendez hit a two-run homer in the second inning and Ted Sizemore singled home what proved to be the winning run in the sixth that gave Bob Gibson and St. Louis a triumph over San Diego.

Nate Colbert belted his 33rd home run—tops in the majors this year—for the losers.

Woods Wins 21st; Brewers Lose

By BRUCE LOWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer
"I'm not looking at records," says Chicago's amazing Wilbur Wood. "I'm still a relief pitcher at heart, pitching one batter, rather than one game, at a time."

That's the approach to the game of baseball—or rather the artistry of pitching—by the 30-year-old knuckleballer, a refugee from the bullpen, the winningest hurler in the major leagues this season.

Wednesday's performance was hardly one of his more successful efforts of the year. He was clipped for 10 hits and five runs by Milwaukee and departed after only 6 1-3 innings.

But he'd hung around long enough to record his 21st victory—and that was good enough for Chicago Manager Chuck Tanner, who said: "I got no complaints. Woody won the game."

The White Sox' 8-6 triumph over the Brewers, coupled with Oakland's 4-3 victory over Baltimore Wednesday night, enabled the White Sox to remain within a game of the front-running A's in the American League's tight West Division race.

Elsewhere in the American League, Kansas City defeated the New York Yankees 3-2, California edged Cleveland 2-1 and Texas topped Boston 9-8 in 10 innings. Minnesota's game at Detroit was rained out.

"My delivery was too high right from the first inning," said Wood, who has lost 11 games this year. "The ball was moving good, but with a knuckler, if it's too high, it loses its effectiveness."

The White Sox gave him a 6-0 lead to work with. In the second inning, Luis Alvarado hit a three-run inside-the-park home run and, in the third, Rick Reichardt drilled a two-run triple, then scored on Carlos May's double.

But it was a pair of runs in the sixth—obtained without benefit of a hit—that provided the winning margin. They came on three walks and a pair of grounders.

Mike Epstein's eighth-inning, tie-breaking home run, Oakland's third solo shot of the game, downed the Orioles. Bert Campaneris and Angel Mangual hit the others.

The loss dropped the Orioles within a game of second-place Detroit in the East but the Yankees blew another chance to gain ground, remaining two games off the pace. The Royals beat them on John Mayberry's tie-breaking single in the eighth.

Clyde Wright won his 14th game for the Angels, turning back Cleveland on four hits. Vada Pinson scored both California runs, the latter on Ken McMullen's tie-breaking single in the ninth.

And Tom Grieve broke Boston's back with a two-out homer in the bottom of the 10th inning for the Rangers. Carl Yastrzemski had a solo homer and Reggie Smith unloaded a grand-slammer for the Red Sox.

Charley Johnson Signs Up For Stint With Broncos

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Veteran quarterback Charley Johnson starts a new career with the Denver Broncos in the National Football League today.

"We are delighted to have Charley in a Bronco uniform," said Denver Coach John Ralston Wednesday after the Houston Oilers traded the 33-year-old Johnson to the Broncos for a high, undisclosed 1973 draft choice.

"His experience will be invaluable to our team," Ralston added.

In another development involving a veteran quarterback, Coach Tommy Prothro of the Los Angeles Rams said Roman Gabriel would start against Oakland Saturday night.

Denver is the third NFL team for Johnson, starting his 12th season in the league. Johnson starred at New Mexico State before starting his pro career with the St. Louis Cardinals in 1961.

He was traded to Houston after the 1969 season in a deal that sent quarterback Pete Beathard and cornerback Miller Farr to the Cardinals. With the Oilers he was hampered by injuries. He played most of the 1970 season with a special hardness for a broken left collar bone.

He started only three games with the Oilers last season, but completed 46 of 94 passes for three touchdowns. He is reported fully recovered from a knee operation during the off-season.

In another deal Wednesday the Cardinals acquired running back Billy Taylor from Atlanta for an undisclosed future draft choice.

Taylor was the University of Michigan's most valuable player last season. He broke the Big Ten Conference career rushing record of Jim Grabowski by gaining 3,072 career yards and scoring 32 touchdowns.

Meanwhile, the Pittsburgh Steelers disclosed that running back John Fuqua would miss at least two exhibitions because of a calf muscle injury.

Capitol Jet Winner At River Downs

CINCINNATI (AP) — All the Moves and Demeanor were the favorites in today's $2,200 featured eighth race at River Downs over six furlongs.

Capitol Jet won the feature Wednesday on a foul that resulted in Prize Behavior being placed third for cutting off Capitol Jet on the final turn.

The winner paid $5.60, $2.60 and $2.80. No Calls paid $3.00 and $2.60 for second, and Prize Behavior $2.60 for third.

Espea's Sin and Dripping Springs, 7-2, returned $18.30 in the daily double and the crowd of 3,594 wagered $331,204.

Angels Edge Cleveland In 2-1 Game

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Clyde Wright used his foot in the first inning and his left arm the rest of the way Wednesday night as the California Angels squeaked past the Cleveland Indians, 2-1, in a game marked by a mild rhabarbh that preceded Ken McMullen's winning single in the ninth inning.

Wright, 14-6, gave up four hits — three of them in the first inning — and retired 17 batters in a row during one stretch to best the Indians' Dick Tidrow, 10-11, in a pitchers' duel. Tidrow allowed just six hits and retired 15 in a row at one point.

The southpaw was in command after he squirmed out of a bases-loaded jam in the first inning. Cleveland had scored on singles by Buddy Bell and Edie Leon and a ground out, then loaded the bases on a single by Ray Fosse and a walk to Graig Nettles.

Wright then induced Frank Duffy, who had driven in the winning run the night before, to ground back to the mound. The pitcher stopped the ball with his foot, picked it up and just nipped the flying Duffy at first. "If that gets through, we've got Wright out of there," moaned Aspromonte. The southpaw with the pinpoint control issued just one walk and one hit the rest of the game as the Indians lost for just the seventh time in the last 21 games. They remained eight games behind Baltimore in the American League East race.

After Roy Foster singled with two out in the third, Wright retired 17 in a row until issuing a one-walk in the ninth to Foster who was wiped out in a game-ending doubleplay.

Joe Jones Returns To Browns Camp

HIRAM, Ohio (AP) — Defensive end Joe Jones, who walked out of the Cleveland Browns training camp Wednesday morning after being criticized for poor play, returned 20 hours later after a conversation with head coach Nick Skorich.

Skorich said the three-year veteran settled his differences and returned to the National Football League camp at Hiram College Wednesday evening. Skorich said Jones was miffed because his play in the first two exhibition games had been criticized and because Skorich had told him rookie Lester Sims would start in his place against the Detroit Lions in Sunday's exhibition game at Ann Arbor, Mich.

Angels Edge Cleveland In 2-1 Game

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Clyde Wright used his foot in the first inning and his left arm the rest of the way Wednesday night as the California Angels squeaked past the Cleveland Indians, 2-1, in a game marked by a mild rhabar that preceded Ken McMullen's winning single in the ninth inning.

Wright, 14-6, gave up four hits — three of them in the first inning — and retired 17 batters in a row during one stretch to best the Indians' Dick Tidrow, 10-11, in a pitchers' duel. Tidrow allowed just six hits and retired 15 in a row at one point.

The southpaw was in command after he squirmed out of a bases-loaded jam in the first inning. Cleveland had scored on singles by Buddy Bell and Eddie Leon and a ground out, then loaded the bases on a single by Ray Fosse and a walk to Graig Nettles.

Wright then induced Frank Duffy, who had driven in the winning run the night before, to ground back to the mound. The pitcher stopped the ball with his foot, picked it up and just nipped the flying Duffy at first. "If that gets through, we've got Wright out of there," mumbled Aspromonte. The southpaw with the pinpoint control issued just one walk and one hit the rest of the game as the Indians lost for just the seventh time in the last 21 games. They remained eight games behind Baltimore in the American League East race.

After Roy Foster singled with two out in the third, Wright retired 17 in a row until issuing a one-walk in the ninth to Foster who was wiped out in a game-ending doubleplay.

Joe Jones Returns To Browns Camp

HIRAM, Ohio (AP) — Defensive end Joe Jones, who walked out of the Cleveland Browns training camp Wednesday morning after being criticized for poor play, returned 20 hours later after a conversation with head coach Nick Skorich.

Skorich said the three-year veteran settled his differences and returned to the National Football League camp at Hiram College Wednesday evening. Skorich said Jones was miffed because his play in the first two exhibition games had been criticized and because Skorich had told him rookie Lester Sims would start in his place against the Detroit Lions in Sunday's exhibition game at Ann Arbor, Mich.

New Arms Budget Keeps Troop Strength In Europe

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration's next defense budget, now being shaped, rules out any significant cut in U.S. troop strength in Europe at least until mid-1974.

That budget will go to Congress in January, whether or not Sen. George McGovern wins the presidency.

However, a new McGovern administration would change the outgoing Republican's proposals—and McGovern is on record as favoring a slash in the U.S. troop commitment in Europe, from the present 305,000 to about 130,000 men.

Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird's plans to maintain U.S. troop levels in Europe during fiscal 1974 are subject to change if there is agreement between NATO and the Russian-led Warsaw Pact nations on mutual force reductions.

About 190,000 U.S. Army troops, 70,000 Air Force men and 45,000 Navy personnel are stationed in the European area, including the 6th Fleet in the Mediterranean.

McGovern takes the position that American forces in Europe

can be reduced safely by more than half "because of the capability for rapid redeployment (from the United States) in the case of attack or ominous enemy buildup" and because the NATO allies "can marshal clear numerical superiority for the initial stages of any conflict."

U.S. military leaders consistently have opposed any sizable pullback of American fighting forces from Europe, even though significant air and ground units in the United States are earmarked for quick movement to Europe in an emergency. The generals say the ground is what counts, both as a deterrent and, if necessary, to meet the first shock of a Soviet attack.

There is a body of opinion in Congress that the U.S. troop be thinned out because it costs at least $4 billion a year.

In mid-July, the Senate Armed Services Committee contended in a formal report that what it called "the newly affluent European nations" should pay more to defray the heavy costs of stationing American troops in Europe.

Infant Stranded In Turkey Will Return Home Sunday

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — A Pan American World Airways ticket agent takes off for Turkey today en route to a Sunday rendezvous with an 11-month-old baby stranded for more than two weeks in a Turkish village.

Miss Stella Rizak, 33, will meet young Aaron Odunkesenler in Istanbul Sunday and the two will fly together to Cleveland and a reunion between the child and his American mother and Turkish father.

Aaron, who celebrates his first birthday Aug. 28, Wednesday received a Turkish passport that ended a red-tape boggle over the boy's dual citizenship.

He had traveled with his parents to Turkey on his mother's American passport. When the parents tried to take the baby out of Turkey, officials said the child also needed a Turkish passport.

The baby returned to Izmir, where his father's relatives live, and has been cared for by an aunt.

Mrs. Odunkesenler went back to America ahead of time to get the birth certificate and authorization statement required. Her husband returned a week later because his ticket was about to expire.

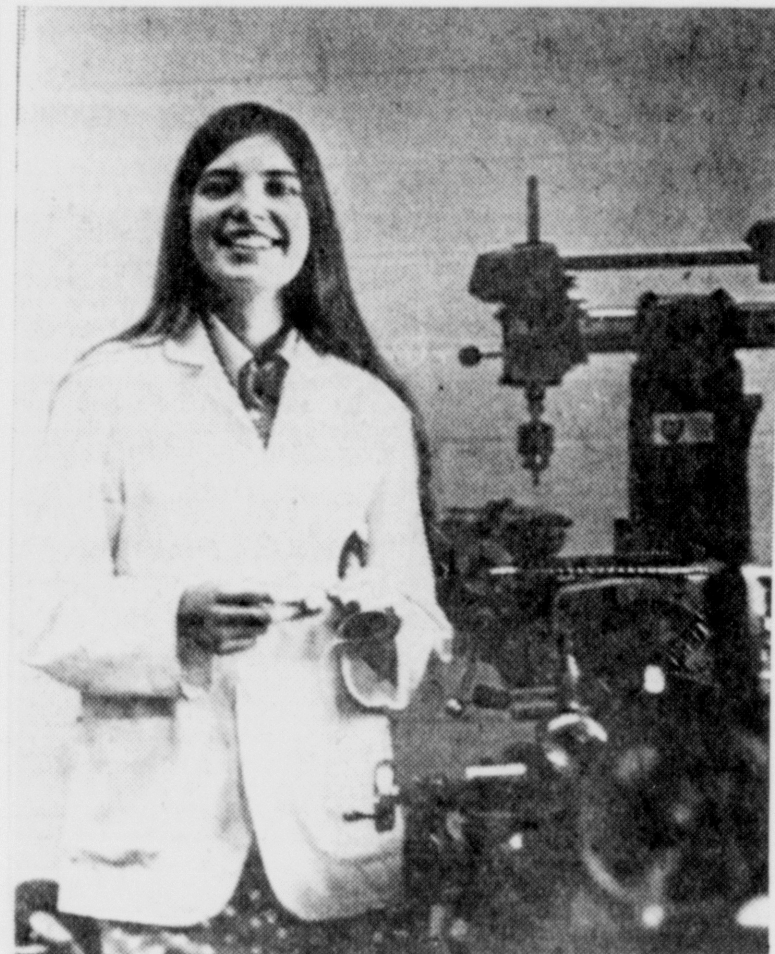

When Miss Rizak read of the baby's plight she volunteered to escort him home under a company assistance plan. Because her visa is good for only three days, she stressed that the baby had to have proper documentation before he made the trip.

problem arose, is in Turkey.

When Mrs. Odunkesenler learned Tuesday that her son would be receiving his Turkish passport the next day, she said she and her husband would go about notifying the aunt in Izmir, which has no telephone service.

the U.S. troop commitment in Europe, from the present 305,000 to about 130,000 men.

Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird's plans to maintain U.S. troop levels in Europe during fiscal 1974 are subject to change if there is agreement between NATO and the Russian-led Warsaw Pact nations on mutual force reductions.

About 190,000 U.S. Army troops, 70,000 Air Force men and 45,000 Navy personnel are stationed in the European area, including the 6th Fleet in the Mediterranean.

McGovern takes the position that American forces in Europe

can be reduced safely by more than half "because of the capability for rapid redeployment (from the United States) in the case of attack or ominous enemy buildup" and because the NATO allies "can marshal clear numerical superiority for the initial stages of any conflict."

U.S. military leaders consistently have opposed any sizable pullback of American fighting forces from Europe, even though significant air and ground units in the United States are earmarked for quick movement to Europe in an emergency. The generals say a strong American presence on the ground is what counts, both as a deterrent and, if necessary, to meet the first shock of a Soviet attack.

There is a body of opinion in Congress that the U.S. troop be thinned out because it costs at least $4 billion a year.

In mid-July, the Senate Armed Services Committee contended in a formal report that what it called "the newly affluent European nations" should pay more to defray the heavy costs of stationing American troops in Europe.

Infant Stranded In Turkey Will Return Home Sunday

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — A Pan American World Airways ticket agent takes off for Turkey today en route to a Sunday rendezvous with an 11-month-old baby stranded for more than two weeks in a Turkish village.

Miss Stella Rizak, 33, will meet young Aaron Odunkesenler in Istanbul Sunday and the two will fly together to Cleveland and a reunion between the child and his American mother and Turkish father.

Aaron, who celebrates his first birthday Aug. 28, Wednesday received a Turkish passport that ended a red-tape boggle over the boy's dual citizenship.

He had traveled with his parents to Turkey on his mother's American passport. When the parents tried to take the baby out of Turkey, officials said the child also needed a Turkish passport.

The baby returned to Izmir, where his father's relatives live, and has been cared for by an aunt.

Mrs. Odunkesenler went back to America ahead of time to get the birth certificate and authorization statement required. Her husband returned a week later because his ticket was about to expire.

When Miss Rizak read of the baby's plight she volunteered to escort him home under a company assistance plan. Because her visa is good for only three days, she stressed that the baby had to have proper documentation before he made the trip.

Aaron's ticket, already paid for by his parents before the
